REFUSE PARTY LINES INCREASE

City Partially Accepts Proposal by S. W. Bell

UP TO PHONE COMPANY

Decision Rests With Dallas Officials

Decision of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company relative to the partial granting of their request for a rate increase made semi-officially by the commission, was not known at a late hour this afternoon, the matter being taken up with officials at Dallas.

Following the advisory committee's decision last night, it was made known to Superintendent Baker of this district, who would not say whether the company would accept the proposed advances without conferring with officials at Dallas.

Refuse Party Line Increase

It was decided Tuesday night in the meeting of the advisory board to grant the company increase along several lines, sought in the phone company's petition to the city, but on party lines, both of two and four subscribers, this increase was refused.

The committee, meeting without the telephone company officials, agreed to an increase from $2.50 on private phones to $3, from $4.50 on business phones to $6, and from $3.50 to $6 on rural service.

Despite the increase granted, it is understood that the phone company desired the increase on the party lines because of the volume of business in this branch of their service. There are 1200 party line phones in Port Arthur against 900 private wires.

In the report of J. B. Saint, who was ordered to check the data on earnings and valuations supplied by the company, it was embodied that the company, in Saint's belief, was capable of making approximately 12 per cent in place of the 4.50 claimed by the company, should the commission see fit to allow the increase.

Council Favors Increase

After the committee composed of J. B. Saint, A. P. Edgington, Herbert Anderson, W. T. Hooker and C. A. Godbey, had agreed on the proposed increase in part, the commission this morning was of the opinion that these increases should be granted. In case such increases are granted these rates will take effect October 1, of this year and continue to December 31 of next.

The items refused by the committee were proposed changes in two party lines from $2 to $2.25 and rates of from $1.50 to $2 in four party lines.

Mayor Logan this morning said in speaking of the December 31, 1924, position: "It is hard to foresee what action will be taken at the expiration of this permit. Should the phone company bring their service up to the standard warranted by this sheet town, the rates may be allowed to stay in effect. At this time the phone company will be asked to show data on their earnings and development costs under the increased rates."

JACKSON GIVEN 5 YEARS IN PEN

Jury Finds Him Guilty in Flogging Case

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Sept. 26.—Murray Jackson, alleged member of a band of men who flogged R. W. Burleson, near here, last April, was under sentence of five years today following conviction last night on charges with assault with prohibited weapons in connection with the flogging.

The case went to the jury last night at 10 o'clock following argument which lasted all day long. The jury remained out but a short time.

Witnesses testified that Jackson was a kleptomaniac and that the local Klan had planned to raise funds to aid him in fighting the charges.

Texas Ports Balk at 22 Cent Oil Rate

Port Arthur joined with other Texas ports this morning and filed a protest with the interstate commerce commission praying suspension of the 22-cent rate on petroleum and petroleum products between certain points in Oklahoma and the ports.

It was shown the rate on New Orleans shipments of the same product was better, and the Texas ports desired an equal rate with the Crescent City. The rate was to have gone into effect the first of October.

Grand Jury Refused Admittance to Miners

Members of the Jefferson county grand jury were today denied admittance to the convict mines at Banner, for a first-hand investigation of charges of barbarous conditions existing there.

Solicitor Jim Davis called off a trip to the mines and announced that he had been notified by Warden J. D. Evans and Roy L. Nolan, of the state convict board, that the jury would not be admitted, under orders from Governor W. W. Brandon.

The first women's shaving cream is introduced. No brush is needed. The hawker suggested that the correspondent send a wife around for further details.

Stunts and Leans

Stylish stunts are being advised in methods of reducing to comely 20's—and anemic 32's are being enlightened on the art of adding a few pounds where they are needed most. The same agencies are prescribed for the fat and lean—but the heavier types are urged to try for speed while the slender models go in for slow and easy movement.

"It is just a reversal of temperament," the instructor explained.

Mah Jong fajamas, described as "absolutely necessary to play the game properly," are being demonstrated along with the Chinese game, which has become so popular.

"They prevent double chins for the young, reduce them for the maturing—and are restful for all," the woman in charge sang out.

Judge Almost Nabbed For Having No Light On His Pleasure Car

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 26.—Justice of the Peace H. M. Reeves here has been attracting a great deal of attention on account of his possession lately on violators of automobile laws. He has had particular stress on the fact that all automobiles must have both lights burning.

Judge Reeves was returning from church Sunday night, when he found to his great surprise that the lights on his own car were not burning.

He directed his daughter to drive the car and stated that he was so familiar with what offenders told him in his own court that in case he was stopped by an officer, he would know what to tell him.

All went well until he started through the business district when he was stopped by Deputy W. A. Bailey of Justice Brown's court, with the intention of arresting him. Justice's daughter used the plea offenders used in that they were allowed to proceed on the promise that the lights would be attended to at once.

STOCK PURCHASE PLAN EXPLAINED

Gulf Company Inaugurates Program October 1

For every $100 invested in shares of Gulf company stock by officers and employees, $50 will be added by the company under a stock purchase plan which the corporation inaugurates Oct. 1, a high official in the Port Arthur plant of the Gulf Refining company said today.

The stock purchase plan provides that employees who have been in the continuous employ of the company for a year or more can have up to 20 per cent of their earnings invested in Gulf Oil corporation stock by trustees appointed by the corporation, the corporation investing 50 cents for the benefit of the employee for every dollar paid in by him, this official explained.

As an example of the working of the plan, an employee receiving $5,000 a year is entitled to $1,000 worth of stock, and to this is added $500 by the corporation, giving him a block of stock worth $1,500.

In Port Arthur the plan will apply to all employees of the Gulf Refining company and the Gulf Commissary company.

TO BAN PARKING CARS ALL NIGHT

Ordinance to Provide for Operation of Sweeper

To permit the new street sweeper to have a chance to "sweep its stuff" the city commission this morning ordered City Attorney Vernon Westmore to draft an ordinance prohibiting the parking of private cars in streets all night.

The new machine has been working after midnight cleaning the paved streets and many complaints have been made to City Engineer Herpin about persons using the streets in front of their residences for garages.

In view of this, the commission this morning ordered the drafting of the ordinance and it is slated to come up before that body soon. It is understood that the ordinance, when drafted, will make parking a car in the street all night subject to penalty.

FRANCE WINS IN GERMAN EDICT

Teutons Lose 'War After War,' Chiefs Acknowledge

PROCLAMATION ISSUED

Announces No Agreement to Separations Scheme

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The end of Germany's passive resistance to Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr was proclaimed officially today.

The proclamation declared the government will not sign any agreement tearing away any portion of the nation from the Reich.

Less 'War After War'

The end of resistance came after nine months. It was Germany's admission she has lost the "war after the war" and has again been brought to her knees by France.

The Reich's government now can only await the reaction in allied capitals and hope for leniency from President Toiner.

It was assumed copies of the proclamation with the official information that Germany has surrendered, will be dispatched immediately to Paris, Brussels and London.

The Stresemann government, it was indicated, will attempt to save its face by a complete but dignified admission of capitulation.

There will be no whining. The government feels the German people have fought an honorable battle and lost. They now must accept whatever consequences are in store for them.

Cost $5,000,000 a Week

With resistance costing upwards of $5,000,000 a week and the mark so valueless that quotations on it had been stopped by many banks, the government had no other choice but to surrender.

The cabinet last night completed the final draft of the proclamation which was given to the world today.

The population seemed to take the first news of the defeat apathetically. Schooled to obey, the people accepted the loss of their past war fight against France as merely another chapter in the sequence of events which has carried Germany from her proud position of 1914 to her present place as the "sickest country of Europe."

As resistance caused reports from the Ruhr were not encouraging. Nine months of fighting without arms has demoralized the once hard working.

ROCKDALE, Texas, Sept. 26.—The nine-year-old son of Luther McDonald, a farmer living near here, was instantly killed yesterday while riding to a cotton gin with his father. The father did not know his son had fallen until the wagon was some twenty yards away.

Solons Quietly Quit Capitol's Halls on Command of Keys

Tug of War Between Governor and Legislature Ends Without Force or Resistance—Court Action Next in Order

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—The Oklahoma legislature, attempting to convene for the impeachment of Governor Jack Walton, was dispersed before the doors of the hall of representatives today by the Oklahoma national guard.

The legislators left the capitol building silently. There was no demonstration. Court action will be instituted immediately, according to Representative W. D. McBee.

The insurgent legislators had been gathering in the capitol building throughout the morning preparatory to an attempt to convene an extraordinary session at noon today.

Gunmen, Detectives on Duty

A few minutes before noon they started crowding about the locked and guarded doors to the hall of representatives.

The military increased its guard to 10 armed men.

Exactly at noon, as the representatives prepared to step forward toward the guard, a shout from the entrance to the senate chambers directly across the lobby attracted their attention.

Colonel W. S. Key of the national guard asked them to assemble about him. They did so silently. Meanwhile the governor's private guards and detectives surrounded the crowd.

Colonel Key then read an order signed by Adjutant General H. H. Markham informing the representatives that the governor warned them not to convene. The conclusion of the order instructed the legislators to disperse.

Order Anticipated

The crowd melted silently. They left the capitol in a body, discussing the development in low tones.

It was apparent that the reading of Walton's order had been anticipated, and that the representatives had their own plans for further action prepared.

No attempt at force was made by either side.

The governor's detectives and plainclothesmen followed the legislators from the building.

Governor Walton was at his home. He had not appeared at the capitol all day.

The retreating company of representatives of the chamber at the capitol grounds by several hundred women carrying American flags.

They were for the most part wives and relatives of the legislators. Sentries had kept them from entering the capitol building during the morning.

Among Walton's gunmen was recognized "Buck" Garrett, ousted sheriff of Carter county and captor of Clara Humm. Garrett is Oklahoma's champion "two pistol" officer.

Walton's Order

With Garrett were Zach Muthall, rodeo promoter and circus showman of Muthall, Oklahoma; Lee Mulliken, former territorial chief of Oklahoma (Tex.) and a lone other.

The governor's order to the legislators as read by Colonel W. S. Key, follows:

"Pursuant to the special executive military order issued by J. C. Walton, governor of the state, and commander in chief of the military forces of the state, forbidding the gathering or assembling of the pretended session of the members of the house of representatives of Oklahoma, at the state capitol at noon Sept. 26, 1923, or at any other time or place in the state during the present period of unrest,

"I, becomes my duty through the provisions of the governor's order, therefore I, Colonel W. S. "I will give you the life you want," offered the rabbit. "I will tell you why there is a rabbit on the moon," said Unpetah, the Indian medicine man, after he had taken a long pull at his pipe. "Nancy and Nick sat as quietly as they knew how, waiting for the story. They had seen the rabbit through Unpetah's magic glass. "It was this way," went on Unpetah. "Once upon a time a mighty hunter came to the place where the plains and mountains meet. He had made many arrows and well he deserved the name of mighty, for what he saw he killed, and he saw much; for his eye was swifter than lightning. "But winter came quickly that year. It tore down the mountain passes and out onto the plains like a white fury while the cottonwood trees were still in leaf and before the wood berries had withered. "Mister Mighty Hunter had lost his way; he was hungry and almost frozen and it was night. "At last he found a cave, and having a stone flint and a few dry twigs, he made a tiny fire. He dug under the snow and found some pine branches and made a greater fire. "Then he lay down to sleep. It was warm in the cave now. "By and by something soft rubbed against his cheek. "Mister Mighty Hunter sat up. "Ah!" he said. "Here is food of the best kind! It was a pure white rabbit. "Then he stopped. "No, no, I can't eat such a helpless creature. Lie down, little rabbit, and keep warm as long as you like. No harm shall touch you. "Thank you," said the rabbit gratefully. And he lay down close beside the hunter and slept. "Three cruel days passed, with never a chance for food! "I will give you the life you want," offered the rabbit. "At least one of us shall be warm." "But the hunter would not have it. "The rabbit hurried himself into the glowing embers before the hunter. "The great hunter thought of his squaw and pappoose waiting for him and at last partook of the food that was offered. "Suddenly a fairy stood before him. "The little white rabbit is on the moon," she said. "With this magic glass you can see it. Take it and tell your children's children never to be unkind to an animal. They must never forget the rabbit on the moon. Go now! The storm is over. You are safe." "The mighty hunter turned and left the cave. But ere he did so, he threw his bow and arrows on the fire! "That's a nice story," said Nancy and Nick. "Thank you, Unpetah. We shall remember the rabbit on the moon, too!" (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

BANKERS FIND MRS. DUBOSE ON WAGES HIGHER COLLEGE STAFF

Nationalization of Industry Will Be Head of Psychology Department

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26. —(Associated Press.)—In a declaration of optimism for the financials of the United States, the American Bankers Association today presented to the 48th annual convention of the American Bankers Association the report of the committee on resolutions. The demand for government purchasing of what is especially condemned as this, it stated, would tend to perpetuate relative over supply of the product. The continued agitation for so-called nationalization of industry is attacked as a menace to the national welfare. Charging that the amazing growth of public servants in government employment has added enormously to the burden of taxation, the resolution urges a provision of tax rates on incomes on a downward plane. Wage scales have been raised out of proportion to the general cost of living, it is said, and the advance in industrial wages since February has been greater than in any period since 1929. Arbitration of wage disputes is urged. The present immigration law is attacked on the ground that it excludes many who are clearly fit for admission and who could make genuine contribution to the national welfare. A law to be based on selection abroad is urged. The new machinery of agricultural credit, adopted last year, "though of doubtful value should be allowed to demonstrate its effectiveness without further tinkering," it is declared. "Further improvement in the economic position of the farmer is to be sought in continued reliance upon the readjustment of supply to demand, rather than upon artificially cheap credit subsidies. Walter W. Head, was elected president of the American Bankers Association.

One of First Vice Commanders Was a Woman

As is apparent when thought is given to the meaning of the No. 7 which is part of the title of this post of the American Legion of Port Arthur, this post is the seventh to receive a charter from the national organization.

It was a strange fact that whenever and wherever a number of men or women go through certain similar experiences a bond is formed which will unite them later, although they were unknown to each other before. As examples of this, we turn to the grand Army of the Republic, the Confederate Veterans, the Veterans of the Spanish American War and various organizations formed as a result of the comradeship fostered in times of war.

Memorial for Buddies.

At the same time that the American Legion was getting started as a national society a number of local ex-service men fresh from the experiences in the service of their country, feeling the same spirit which was moving their buddies the country over, decided to organize some sort of a world war veterans organization. The original intention was to make it a memorial to the sacrifices of some of the buddies as well as for the benefit of its members.

To bring this society into being the first meeting of ex-service men was held April 17, 1919, attended by A. L. Darnell, chairman; Wright Chennault, secretary, and Pete Williams and Drury Phillips as the body politic. After considerable time spent in interesting the rest of the ex-service men, a second meeting was held on May 8 which may properly be called the first regular meeting because at this time the question of affiliation had already begun to materialize.

Named for First War Dead.

After several meetings it was decided to name the post in the honor of the first Port Arthur soldier killed in France, hence the name of Rudolph Lambert for the post.

One of the first activities for the post was the aid given in staging a reception for the 36th division when it returned to Texas June, 1919. The second was in the parade of July 4, 1919.

Certain interests over the state started a movement for a soldier's bonus bill for the state to grant $200 to each ex-service man or woman. The local post received its charter from the national organization in July, 1919, and one of the post's first acts was to go on record as being against this grant because the state was favoring the more lasting form of bonus.

All women who served as Red Cross nurses during the war are eligible to membership in the Legion, and one of the first five post commanders was a woman, Miss May Mosley. Numbers of activities occupied this post in a routine sort of a way until November approached. It was decided here that the ex-service men should take the leading part in the Armistice day celebration. As a result a parade was staged and in the evening a dance was given at the Plaza hotel.

Met Hospital Quota.

The legion here does not derive sufficient income from its dues to meet all of its expenses which arrive during the year and consequently it has been the custom to put on some sort of an entertainment each year to raise funds. In 1919 a minstrel show was put on and in 1920 and 1921 the legion sponsored the showing of a musical comedy. In 1922 a musical show was given at the Strand theater.

Early in 1920 a drive to raise funds for the establishment of a hospital for ex-service men was started. This institution was located at Kerrville, Texas, and the Rudolph Lambert post was one of the first to subscribe its quota, $4200, when the Texas Legion members set out to make good a shortage of $20,000 in the hospital account.

Illustrating the attitude of the ex-service men in local civic affairs is the legion's action here in the spring of 1920 when matters reached such a point in the police department that the Citizens' Law and Order league was organized. The legion, almost to a man, backed up the appointment of Post Commander Pete Williams as chief of police, tendered when most of the police officers refused to continue in service.

Met City's Crisis.

It is quite generally conceded throughout the city that the crisis was ably met and peace restored in the particular channels where the trouble occurred.

In 1921 in keeping with the trend of legion affairs elsewhere a ladies' auxiliary post was organized. As the membership of the auxiliary was made up of mothers, sisters, wives and daughters of members of the legion, or of any soldier killed in service, this auxiliary readily acquired a large list of members.

About the first assistance given the legion by the ladies' auxiliary was the equipping and furnishing of the present Legion club rooms on Lake Shore drive. The auxiliary has been of great aid in caring for the disabled veterans.

SPIRIT OF 1917 RE-LIVED HERE

Unselfish Effort Dedicated To Worthy Cause

The spirit of 1917 is destined to live in the American Legion. To preserving this spirit of unselfish service, united effort in communities, states and the nation, members of the American Legion have dedicated themselves, officials in Rudolph Lambert Post, declare.

Examples of efforts put forth in this direction by Port Arthur Legionnaires are cited by the officials. They recall the participation of the ex-service men in the community celebrations held in Port Arthur, such as the Quartermaster Centennial celebration last Fourth of July.

All down the long line of march where thousands of people were standing to watch the historical pageant go by, the sight of the National Emblem with its color guard of ex-service men, set men baring their heads, and women standing proudly erect. But some forgot to pay their respects to the passing flag, and Legionnaires were quick and alert to remind them of their duty demanded by flag etiquette, Legionnaires recalled.

In drives for the Port Arthur Red Cross, Legionnaires both as an organization and as individuals have played an active and important part, members of Rudolph Lambert post said.

Jimmie Wood and Jack Storey Sling Mean Tonsils Without Self Consciousness or Affectation

The end men featured in the "Dixie Revue" are none other than Jimmie Wood and Jack Storey, both noted for their singing ability and dancing. Local audiences have long been thrilled by the singing of both lads and this week they are furnishing the funny songs for the American Legion show.

Jimie Wood is the discoverer of the reason why bridges are built across streams. He says they are to prevent the fish from being sun-burned, and also to keep the rain out of the rivers. One thing he says he can't see however, is how do they know that people will go that way when they build bridges? Jimmie studied in his early youth to be a ballet dancer and sheep herder combined, but during the war he was in the cavalry, causing his limbs to become hopelessly bowed. As everyone knows, neither a ballet dancer nor a shepherd can afford to be bow-legged, so Jimmie turned to other pursuits, one of which is pursuing his daily bread at the Texas Co.

Sympathetic Voice.

So touching is Jimmie's renditions of popular ballads that he is forced to rehearse his songs alone for it was found that the cast of the Dixie Revue after hearing Jimmie sing, was so affected that they were unable to continue rehearsal. Jimmie is further famed as a Spanish athlete, meaning he is some speaker, he being the only foreigner upon whom a South American bull fighting commission has placed a handicap of three bulls.

Pass on, Jimmie, and let us look at Jack.

Jack, being single will be dealt with kindly to prevent his past history from being revealed. He is a singer who shakes a wicked tonsil. Singing comes natural with him.

Quippy End Man.

Says one friend of Jack, he originated the famous philosophy that when a golf ball stops rolling it looks around. Now it does, doesn't it? That's.

But that isn't a start to Jack's philosophy. He'll spring some of his cleverest quips and cracks as an end man in the "Dixie Revue of '22," just as a further means of introduction, here this one that another friend tells on Jack:

"Even the girls have noticed Jack's clean shaven," says this friend, "and they and all of us admire him for it, but what puzzles his friends is why he's all the time talking about the razor he uses."

"I was out with him the other night, and gave him a nuzzle. 'Gillie, we have this,' was all he said."

Tense Moments in the Plot

JACK MOUNTING, a young theatrical man, has fallen very much in love with a girl who he heard sing to wounded soldiers while he was in France. Since his return and discharge after the war he has never seen the girl and is at a total loss to know who she is and where she lives. Being interested in radio work, he has lately heard the girl, whom he calls his "girl with the golden voice," sing from some station in Chicago, and he has come to this city in an attempt to find her.

Discovering her as a guest in the same hotel with him, he is prevented from an immediate marriage by the girl's father who insists that he must raise $5000 cash within a year's time. In order to do this, he arranges to stage a revue called "Vanity," atop the Zigzag Roof Garden, in New York City, and the number is such a hit that he immediately sells out for $25,000, gets the girl and everything ends just as it should, with the thwarted villain and everything.

Throughout three acts the comedy relief and rapid action of all the members of the large cast serve to keep up the spot set in the opening number, and the show ends after a bare two hours.

Nothing in the way of special costumes, scenery, lighting effects and musical aggregations has been left out of the production to augment the comedy, acting, dancing and singing which are woven and interwoven through over the two hours of good times, the legionnaires declare.

BRING CHEER TO DISABLED VETS

Legion and Auxiliary Promote Spirit of Service

Comfort and cheer to hundreds of disabled ex-service men in government hospitals have been brought with gifts and remembrances sent them at Christmas and various other times by Port Arthur Legionnaires. With their women's auxiliary and their own organization, members of Rudolph Lambert post dispose of popular remembrances of Flanders fields, and entertainers on special committees, celebrations, using the proceeds of these sales to bring happiness to buddies sick and crippled through sacrifice for their country, officials in Rudolph Lambert post declare.

In cooperation with the Port Arthur Red Cross chapter, members of Rudolph Lambert post, American Legion, also have helped Port Arthur ex-service men to be placed in government hospitals for medical attention of diseases and disabilities brought on by service in a branch of the Nation's service, the officials said. Assisting worthy ex-service men and their families to secure adjusted compensation, insurance adjustments and various other post war benefits also has been a part of the Rudolph Lambert post's work in Port Arthur, members of the post said. Most of this work is done under the direction of the Red Cross chapter here.

The rumor that Jack Thompson will furnish everybody with free coal this winter is not confirmed.

A Little of This—A Little of That for Everybody

FUN? WELL, YES!

And There's 75 Talented Homefolk in Cast

Never before in the history of Port Arthur has such an opportunity been afforded as confronts the lover of music and minstrelsy in the presentation of the American Legion show "Dixie Revue of '22" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week at the Elks theatre. There is going to be plenty of entertainment for those who journey to the land of imagination, and for them there will be the soft ballads, jokes with a kick, dancing, all unsurpassed even to professional circles.

From the opening scene to the last curtain drop the co-mingling of the laughing black-faces of the end men, the pretty faces of the chorus, the voices of the vocalists will present a picture of well-trained players doing their best to please a generous audience.

Pretty Girls Galore.

Big of collar and bigger of show the all-star staff of end men will take walk across the board to the straits of the laughing jans and the louder laugh of a pleased audience. Slippery, sliding trombones will aid the joyous blacks to trip the gay fantastic and end their turn in a big lipped ear to ear grin.

Pretty girls, the prettiest to be found in Port Arthur and that means the world, would make the married men wish they were not "hooked up" and the unmarried men wished they were.

Boys, if you ever want to see a show you had better go to this one, for if you don't, you'll sorely wish you had.

Director Lewis Lacey promises that this will be the best show Port Arthur ever saw. It ought to be if he admits it.

It will be a large evening on Koo-koo island for the canibals, I'll say, say the peppy directory with whom it is a pleasure to work.

Never—You Indeed!

Servant-five of the most talented people of Port Arthur, forty of whom are popular girls of the city, make up the casts of the "Dixie Revue of '22." The men are all of recognized ability and are arranged in what is claimed to be the most novel minstrel ever staged here. Among these entertainers is Tom Wilhelm, who takes the leading part, that of a young man who is searching for his girl of the golden voice.

Guy Halton takes the part of the father of the girl of the golden voice who gets into the usual financial difficulty.

Lewis Dunn has a part new to him and to us, that is a liberal interpretation of the sissy. Miss Lucille Price, one of the popular young ladies of the younger set, is playing the leading role. Miss Thelma Barnes is taking the part of the poor fat girl that nobody loves but whose fate turns out different in this plot.

Many others too numerous to mention grace the "Dixie Revue of '22" with their ability and their beauty and it looks like it's going to be a matter of sorrow on the part of those who do not see any of the performances, for these artists are cast in a show of unusual merit for cleverness and value as entertainers.

Financial Aid Given Worthy, Needy Cases

Through careful and intelligent effort, Port Arthur legionnaires have provided help to numbers of ex-service men in financial straits, officials in Rudolph Lambert post declare.

Not operating as a charity organization, legionnaires nevertheless are always ready to assist their worthy "buddies" in any possible way, officials said. Scores of ex-service men out of jobs have been put in good places in Port Arthur and are now contributing to the community and various social, civic and religious activities, the officials pointed out.

As a result of investigations carried out by Port Arthur legionnaires numbers of men posing as ex-service men who in reality never saw service, have been taken off of the community's hands by members of the Rudolph Lambert post, and thus a service that cannot be measured in dollars and cents has been rendered the city, Legionnaires said.

SUPPORTED WIFE'S KIN, GETS DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Sept. 26.—Declaring that two years after their marriage his wife brought her mother, sister and brother-in-law to his home and forced him to support them all for nine years, Charles C. Fogle made a successful plea for a divorce from Mrs. Ethel J. Fogle. He told Judge Bartlett that during the nine-year period his wife would not permit him to have anything to say regarding the household.

Fogle said his wife was of a most dominating disposition and was given the solid support of her relatives whenever she clashed with him.

Combined with the beauty of the chorus, typified in the above three pictures, the show is chuck full of originality and wit. A classier aggregation of girls for a chorus would be hard to find off the theatrical stage. Don't fail to see the revue.

MISS DOVEY SMITH

Life of a Director Just One Endless Round of Pleasure

Works Hardest When Things Look Easiest--But Say! It Resulted in Some Show!

By HORATIO.
Ladies and gentlemen, on Thursday night glance down into the orchestra and you will see the figure of the sometimes sworn by, but always corn at, director, Lewis L. Lacey, on the beautiful and benign, who, through his machinations, has contrived to give us what General Sherman said was during many a night of "let's go," "more volume," "ouder," while we labored in agonies of sound that rent the air nightly in the Elks' theatre.

LOUIS L. LACEY

Lewis L. Lacey has not always been director of theatricals--ah, no! years ago the boys around his home town of Austin kidded him into believing that the theatrical world of mids was his for the asking, and he loved them to the extent "let's go" home and another and become hat is commonly known as a black-eye comedian. But after months of razzle (2) General Pershing asked a boy to get together as there was nothing to be attended to over your, so Lew, along with several others, posed the briny as a member of the rainbow division, and after a stay some 22 months among the mangles and things that crawl, he decided that too much was enough, and returned. But that's getting ahead of our story.

Lew was born in the fair city of in Antonio some 25 years ago, and as moved to Austin about four years later. Since that time, on account of a prominence (2) of the celebrity question, the two cities have never been able to satisfactorily settle the point of which town he came from, in Austin claiming it was Austin, of Austin, not to be outdone in celestie, immediately claiming that San Antonio should take all the blame.

Lewis' middle name, represented by a mysterious "L," has long been of doubtful quality, even the boy himself being unable to decide which might sound better, Lawrence or Lorenzo, as becoming one of the profession.

But, like Shakespeare said, "Let chance what may, I love you for your own." We all like our director and are sure that he has trained us in the best show that ever hit our Port Arthur.

Girls, if by any chance you like his

MEXICO COPPER INDUSTRY GAINS

Southern Republic Produces Fifth of World's Supply

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 25. Mexico produces more than one-fifth of the world's copper, according to a bulletin issued by the bureau of mines of the Mexican ministry of industry, commerce and labor.

Besides the important contingent yielded by Mexico of silver and gold, the bulletin states that the country produces large quantities of industrial metals with lead and copper leading. During the year 1922, 213,422,370 kilos of lead and 28,977,784 kilos of copper were produced. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

The total value of lead and copper produced in Mexico during 1922 amounted to $43,150,000, which represents 31.70 per cent of the total world production for that period.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Gasoline is not one of the necessities of life Attorney General Jay R. Benton of Massachusetts says in an opinion handed down at the request of Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the special commission on the necessities of life.

Exclusive North Shore Town Aghast at Man's Boldness

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Sept. 25.—An anonymous rebellion has just been unbuttoned up the North Shore, and all the citizenry of Lake Bluff are getting their shoes half-ooled preparatory to stamping it out.

It seems that some unidentified versifier is inciting the insurrection, spreading about the village a lot of metric propaganda against the administration. Large parcels of dactylic hexameter have been hurled at the head of Robert W. King, newly elected president of the place, not to mention the attacks directed at the fair name of the village itself.

Here Is One Attack.

For example, there is one rhythmic effusion, under the title, "All Bluff," which has been printed and disseminated. It begins:

"Close by the lake there is a little

kick town

That has pulled a new stunt as a bid for renown.

For strange though it seems, in this land of the free,

They have voted their burg is a small monarchy.

"Instead of a mayor, they have chosen

a 'king'

To sit on the throne and the scepter to swing.

The king was selected with infinite care.

Of English descent, stout, with blond,

bushy hair.

WRIGHT CHENAULT

PRAIRIE CHICKENS ARE SLAUGHTERED

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 26.—During the first ten days of this month hunters in four counties in the western part of the state liberally slaughtered wild prairie chicken. This was made possible by an act of the last legislature which provided for an open season on this wild fowl.

The season was open in Gray, Wheeler, Hemphill and Lipscomb just for ten days, and hunters were restricted to five fowls each day, and no single hunter allowed to kill more than 15 during the entire open season.

Reports to the game, fish and oyster commissioner say hunters from other states came to Texas just to be able to shoot these fowls. This resulted in swelling the fees of this department, which is higher for non residents than for residents.

Commissioner W. W. Boyd states all indications point to more hunting licenses being issued this year than for any other previous year. This will mean fees aggregating more than $150,000 will be derived in this manner.

'5 and 10' Stores in Berlin Have Jumped To '100 Million' Stores

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The crash of the mark has eliminated the 5 and 10-cent stores in Germany. Before the war Germany had, here and there in its biggest cities, what were similar to our 5 and 10 cent stores in America. All articles were sold for a like number of pfennigs.

Although there are still stores which sell everything for 10, 20 and 30 pfennigs, now instead of 10, 20 and 30 pfennig stores, 10, 20 and 30-million mark stores.

That is, on one day they are 10, 20 and 30 million mark stores, but on the next they may be 20, 30 and 40 million mark stores. For instance, in the Friedrichstrasse in July, 1922, there was a little store where everything was priced at 30 marks. One could buy a new pocket knife or a cheap piece of furniture or a box of stationery—all for 30 marks each.

Day by day the mark decreased in value and the sign in the store window showed an increase in price, until during the first week of September of this year everything in the store was marked 10 million marks.

By the time this gets into print Berlin 10-cent stores it is have turned into 100 million mark stores.

CONCRETE PIERS ARE PLANNED FOR ROADBED

CANADIAN, Texas, Sept. 25.—It is reported by officials of the Panhandle and Santa Fe railways that the company will soon begin the construction of several more concrete piers for the Canadian river bridge.

The bridge will be extended across the river, where now there are wood piers.

These wooden approaches to the main bridge on the north side which is under construction and because the loss of traffic while the bridge was closed the rebuilding of these wooden approaches cost the company $100,000.

BEGINS NEW TEST IN TEAGUE SECTOR

TEAGUE, Texas, Sept. 25.—A new test for oil has been started five miles from Teague on the Teague-Merita pike. The location has been made on the Hockley-Wheeler tract and will be made by R. F. Sharkey and associates of Tulsa, Okla. Samples are now being placed on the ground, and as soon as machinery has been assembled, a test will be drilled to a depth of 3,000 feet.

FELON IN NO RUSH, HAS LOTS OF TIME

LONDON, Ohio, Sept. 25.—A "trustee" at the London prison farm recently drove the foreman at the farm to London to make some purchases. The foreman entered a shop and remained longer than he had planned. He went to the door and called to the trustee to be patient, stating that he would return soon.

Bootleggers, Reckless Drivers Poor Insurance Risks, Says Bureau Chief

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The reckless driver, the moonshine drinker, the bootlegger and many others who become liable to sudden and violent death will soon be listed as "poor risks" and they will have difficulty in obtaining insurance.

A plan is now being formulated by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce that will enable insurance companies to effectively check efforts of undesirable risks to obtain insurance.

The bureau, with a mass of records collected from police records, has compiled a list of forty-two classes of undesirable for insurance companies.

The new "poor risk" list will allow insurance companies to lower their rates for ordinary risks and materially reduce the cost of insurance, according to the bureau.

Already a group of large insurance companies throughout the United States are co-operating in the movement.

WIFE CHARGES WIDOW STOLE HUSBY'S LOVE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 25.—A suit for $250,000 charging alienation of the affections of Frank W. Zeiss, Jr., has been begun against Mrs. Dorothy Wiggins. Mrs. Zeiss, who is the daughter of J. H. Mall, president of Crump's Shipbuilding company, says Mr. Zeiss left their home in West Philadelphia, Sept. 1, vowing never to return. She charges that Mrs. Wiggins used all the wiles of a modern Circe to win the love of her husband.

COAL SETTLEMENT SCORED BY DEALER

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The New York State Coal Merchants' association adopted resolutions condemning Governor Finch of Pennsylvania for the manner in which the coal controversy was settled. The dealers declared the settlement against the best interests of the public and in favor of labor and the financial interests of Pennsylvania.

Visit to Moon Would Cost Traveler a Quarter Billion

Scientist Declares Time Will Come When Earth Men Will Be Able to Take Trips Through Space

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Anybody, instead of going to the seashore, can have his vacation on Mars, the moon or any other planet in the very near future, according to Professor Hermann Oberth, who has just published a book "Hocking to the Planets."

The theory of the American experimenter, Goddard, who planned to shoot a rocket to the moon, is further developed by Oberth on a scientific basis which, according to Max Wolff, professor of astronomy and leading authority, is unattainable from a scientific point of view.

Oberth endeavors to prove three theses:

First.—In the present state of science and technique it is possible to construct machines which can pass beyond the terrestrial atmosphere.

Second.—Through further perfection such machines can attain speeds, enabling them once the etherial space is reached, not to fall back to earth, but to pass beyond the reach of the attraction of the earth, and travel around in a planetary orbit.

Third.—These machines can be constructed in such a way that human beings (probably without injuring the health) could ride in them.

Oberth calculates that such a machine would cost about $250,000,000. From a scientific standpoint, Oberth declares it would be unprofitable to travel only to the moon.

Oberth believes that it would be more advisable to construct the machines so that they would become little moons themselves, traveling in an orbit around the earth. The crew could explore unknown parts of the earth and photograph them.

Oberth carries his theory so far as to predict that it will be possible to construct machines which take sufficient explosives to travel to far-off planets. While the main apparatus would assume a route like a moon around the planet to be explored, a second and smaller rocket, carrying passengers, could be shot off from the circulating machine to the surface of that planet. After the investigations had been completed this second machine could rejoin the mother ship which, in turn, would be able to come back to earth.

The scenery along the road to success is a failure.

Captain in Czar's Army, Private in Uncle Sam's

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Alexander Tchouvalski, formerly a captain in the czar's army, is now a private in the United States army, having enlisted in New York the other day. He has had a remarkable career. He was wounded three times in the World war, shot by Kerensky's raiders, found with Wrangel's White army and later fled from the Bolsheviks.

TWO WELL KNOWN PAINTERLY BURNED

Is Your Wife Marooned During the Day?

Have you ever considered what is meant by the hundreds of cars parked in the business sections during working hours?

Most of them carried business men to work, leaving their wives and families at home, marooned because the family's one car is in daily use by the husband and father.

Chevrolet Utility Coupé with high-grade body makes an ideal extra car, especially in combination with a 3-passenger touring or sedan.

The wife finds it of every day utility for shopping, calling, taking the children to school in bad weather, etc. Its price and upkeep are low, yet the quality is high.

Students Get Around Ruling About Autos

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 25.—Students-owned automobiles are not allowed at the University of Texas, registering students are warned. Several have already been told to send their cars back home.

But there's more a loophole through the ruling passed by the board of regents last year. For instance, the following classes of students are exempt, and are allowed to possess cars: (1) students over 21 without parents who are entirely on their own resources, students working their way and using cars in their daily work, married students.

Probably far less than 10 per cent of the student body is forced to walk because of the ruling.

ROAD CONFERENCE HELD AT MARSHALL

MARSHALL, Texas, Sept. 25.—Engineer W. J. Warren is in the city today conferring with County Judge John W. Scott on the contract for the construction of the good road in the western portion of Harrison county known as the "Noondy road."

Charles is unable to account for his uncanny ability to absorb knowledge. How he retains information in his small head only the boy knows. He says that he remembers places in geography because he can see the maps and the countries and cities that lie there, in his imagination, and they are divided by heavy black lines or thin red ones and are marked by different colors.

Charles doesn't stay in and study all the time to gain his knowledge. He displays as brown a coat of tan as any boy and his knees show brown and bruised where he has bumped them at play. Most any time you'll find him playing with his automobile or making believe at being a miner in the back yard.

He doesn't know yet how he'll use his ability, but thinks he'll be a doctor like his father.

He also operates a typewriter and can add a column of figures more swiftly than his father, Dr. Morse proudly admits.

Charles' parents are unable to account for his unusual mental development. It just seemed to be there and needed no training. Ever since he was a little more than 3 years old he has excited wonder. At that time he mastered the typewriter and since has typed a number of poems which he has bound into a book and reads regularly.

His only schooling has been an eight months' course given him by his parents, and as the time approaches for his regular education to begin they wonder what they will do with him.

His only schooling has been an eight months' course given him by his parents, and as the time approaches for his regular education to begin they wonder what they will do with him.

Charles is unable to account for his uncanny ability to absorb knowledge. How he retains information in his small head only the boy knows. He says that he remembers places in geography because he can see the maps and the countries and cities that lie there, in his imagination, and they are divided by heavy black lines or thin red ones and are marked by different colors.

Charles doesn't stay in and study all the time to gain his knowledge. He displays as brown a coat of tan as any boy and his knees show brown and bruised where he has bumped them at play. Most any time you'll find him playing with his automobile or making believe at being a miner in the back yard.

He doesn't know yet how he'll use his ability, but thinks he'll be a doctor like his father.

He also operates a typewriter and can add a column of figures more swiftly than his father, Dr. Morse proudly admits.

Charles' parents are unable to account for his unusual mental development. It just seemed to be there and needed no training. Ever since he was a little more than 3 years old he has excited wonder. At that time he mastered the typewriter and since has typed a number of poems which he has bound into a book and reads regularly.

GHOST DEFIED BY REPORTER

Alleged Haunted House Is Scene of Exposure

RAHWAY, N. J., Sept. 25.—A reporter went through the supposedly haunted Pratt mansion, in the remote Milton Lake section of Rahway, while a group of nearby residents stood against outside the thickly wooded grounds. Now the unhappy residents, who have been kept awake nights by what they term "spirits of the dead" meandering about the old house, are somewhat relieved by the report of the writer that no ghosts had been encountered.

The old Pratt mansion, as the townfolk call it, is tucked away in a small forest. At the entrance to the house a bit of old curtain flapping in the breeze against the high French windows, adds to eeriness of the surroundings. A black cat, which can not be accounted for by nearby orchards, makes the place its playground, and it is said that the upper eaves of the old place are the nesting place for a good sized family of bats.

All this, and much more, is reported by those who live near the ancient house.

But it is the ghost who has the neighborhood agitated. They assert he has been seen about the grounds, in and out of the rooms, and seated comfortably on the wide veranda.

Pastboard Box Babe To Get New Residence

PARK, Texas, Sept. 25.—A house has been found for the "pastboard box babe" which was found two and one-half miles west of the place Friday morning on the front porch of a country home.

The real parents evidently discarded the child in the box and placed him on the doorstep of a home, hoping that someone would keep him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ammon of Park, after reading about the finding of the child, went before County Judge Lawrence and took steps to legally adopt the baby. No clue has been found as to the real parents.

LAUGHS THROUGH DOOMED TO DIE

Prison Pollyanna Can't Get The Blues

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—"If it comes to the worst, I'll try to take the rope just as I did that $25 prize check with a smile."

And William J. Cramer shows a simple smile to prove that death of the death penalty hasn't yet affected his cheerfulness or sense of humor. Sir Walter Raleigh, sitting at the headman's as had nothing on him. He forgot the shadow across his path the other day long enough to think up a funny picture title for a contest conducted by a Chicago newspaper, sending it in from the address, "Room 421, 440 N. Dearborn street."

And now in "Room 421," a cell in "murder's row" at the Cook county jail, Cramer doesn't see anything unusual in his unusual ability to forget care and think up jokes.

Sorry for "unfortunates." "When any of the fellows in here get blue, I try to cheer them up. I feel sorry for some of these unfortunates," says Cramer, emphasizing the "unfortunates" to distinguish them from himself.

From himself is, under his attorney, Harold P. O'Donnell, winning his pending final effort before the supreme court his life will "come to the worst."

At his trial and ever since Cramer has steadfastly asserted his innocence. That assertion is his declaration, at least half the battle in preserving his cheerfulness.

"The Jail House Blues" haven't been giving me any "serenade," says this prison Pollyanna.

"Always I have considered myself a rolling stone. I don't mean a wanderer because I have stayed at home. But whatever turned up next, I was ready for it. The big thing is never to give up or make a fuss over what happens."

"Time Does Fly"

"Everyone gets blue sometimes, of course. The tough time here is on Saturday night, when fellows on the outside are going to see their girls. When you get to feeling that way, though don't give away, but start thinking about something else. The men in here don't seem to mind it so much."

"The months go fast, fast," he adds with emphasis.

"In the old days at home I worked on newspaper puzzles and contests. I put in the time with my younger brothers. It just came natural to me to again here. The youngsters and I used to win prizes every now and then, before. Everything goes on here just about as it does on the outside, a mixture of good and bad."

"Yes, when I get out I'm going back to the old job as shipping clerk."

Several months ago his wife had Barnett arrested on a charge of assault.

Ninety-Three Year Old Skipper Recounts Thrills in Eighty-One Years

ALBANY, Vt., Sept. 25.—Thrills of a sailor's life aren't so plentiful in these days of steam. I've had a few, though, in my 81 years as a sailor. I have sailed Lake Champlain every year since I was 12 years old. They call me the oldest ship master in active service in America.

My first thrill was in 1843. I was just a kid of 13, but I was a member of the crew of the schooner Scythia, the others being my brothers, William and Frank. There were five boys in our family, all web-footed!

In those days sailing vessels carried all the Vermont freight along Lake Champlain's 113 miles of length. The year before my father gave me my first sea job aboard his lumber sloop Hawk.

One night during some heavy weather I was knocked overboard from the Scythia. It was blowing very hard, but my brother William heard my yell of fright and threw a plank into the water.

Although it was pitch dark I managed to find the plank because I heard it splash near where I was thrashing about.

All I could hear was the thunder of the sails and the howling of wind. I yelled for help, but was sure nobody could hear me. I tried to reach the New York shore, but had to give it up because the plank kept overturning.

My other brother, Grant, mean while had started out in the yawl

Finally I heard him calling and soon he managed to find me in the dark. William had bent back with the schooner and in a short time I was back on board.

Lake Champlain isn't very wide, 13 1/4 miles in the widest part, but it has claimed many a life in storms. I think I came closer to death at that time than in any subsequent adventure.

Four lake saw the second steamboat in the world. The two Winslow brothers, ship carpenters who built Robert Fulton's Clermont in 1807, came to Burlington the next year and built the Vermont.

My First Rescue.

I took out a steamboat pilot's license in 1856. That's 67 years ago. I was only 20 and was proud to have my own boat. In those days the pilot really was master, for the captain did the clerical work and was not a practical sailor.

My first year as a pilot was marked by a little adventure. It really wasn't very thrilling, but it made me boiling mad.

I saved a man's life—and then he had the nerve to ask me to jump back in and rescue his hat!

I was pilot of the steamer Canada with Captain Flagg. It was a cloudy dark when we arrived at Burlington one night.

The Burlington wharf was lighted only with a couple of oil lanterns, and it was quite dark near the gang-plank.

Capt. Ell B. Rockwell

As the passengers were getting off, one of them turned the wrong way—and walked off the end of the wharf into the water.

Hearing his cry for help I rushed out of the pilot house and slid down a line to the water's edge. Somebody had the wit to bring a lantern and fortunately I was hanging very close to where the man was struggling in the water.

I grabbed him and held him until some people got a rowboat and came out and took him ashore. By that time I couldn't hold onto the rope any longer, and I dropped into the water and swam to the dock.

When I came out I thought the rescued man was going to thank me. But he seemed rather angry, calling out to me:

"Say, you're wet; so go in and get my hat, will you?"

A fire aboard the steamer Adirondack in 1868 was one of the most thrilling experiences I ever had. One hundred and twenty-five passengers were saved because I was lucky enough to think of the right thing at the right time.

Fire and Steam.

I had an idea. Getting some more hose and stopping the pump, I turned a lot of water onto the hot boiler, creating so much steam that the fire was put out instantly.

Just as the fire was put out one of the women passengers, dragging her husband by the hand, rushed up to the mate in charge of the lifeboats. She demanded to know if he could swim and he said he could.

"Will you save me?" she cried. The mate told her she was saved already because the fire was out. But she persisted, and to pacify her he said he would.

Turning to her husband, she said firmly: "John, you get a life preserver and save yourself. This man is going to save me!"

Want of morphine caused a spectacular wreck in the summer of 1870 when the steamer Champlain ran onto a rock off Split Rock mountain, a spur of the Adirondacks that juts into the lake.

The Morphine Wreck.

For eight miles our course between Montreal landing and Burlington, lay close to the wall of rock. Twelve minutes after I went off watch one night the steamer ran up on a rock sticking two feet out of the water 10 yards from the shore. The ship was just drifting off. My mate was that we had run onto a rock. I hesitated for the moment, the leaders.

Reaching out I saw the mate holding the wheel, looking down, and he said: "Can you account for being on the mountain?"

"Yes, you're still asleep," I told him. He replied: "An true as the course I was steering the ship on."

Later at his trial it was shown that he used morphine, but happened to be without it at the time. The lack distorted his vision.

TREAT MOTHER-IN-LAW WELL, AVOID DIVORCE

PEKIN, China, Sept. 25.—By a new divorce law recently passed in China, divorce may be granted for mistreatment of a mother-in-law or father-in-law. This new code replaces the ancient divorce law, called "Yi-Li," which was granted for talkativeness of a wife, for lack of respect for a mother-in-law or for jealousy. The clauses of the present code differ in virtually every respect, but one unique requirement is made, namely, that the consent of the father and mother be obtained before a divorce may be granted.

Rice Crop Failure Said To Be Reason For Pupil Decrease

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 25.—Failure of the 1922 rice crop in Jefferson county and the fact that many tenants on the farms have moved away explains the drop in enrollment of small rural schools in the county, according to Miss Mary Sandell, county superintendent of schools.

A total enrollment report has been compiled and although it is higher for the entire county than it was last year, it is on account of the gains in the French and Port Neches districts. There are now 1,236 children enrolled in county schools, while the 1922 report shows a total of 950. The kinds of Enmer, Enrell, Cheek, Sabine Pass, Hamshire, all rice farming centers, show a great decrease in enrollment.

FORD NOT TO GET MUSCLE SHOALS

Administration Plans Coup To Win South, West

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The apparent slap administered to Henry Ford and through him to farmers of the west and south is in reality part of the Coolidge administration's program for winning both the south and west in 1934.

While the sale this week of the Georgia steam plant to the Alabama Power company appeared to make Muscle Shoals a certain issue in the 1934 campaign and seemed likely to alienate more farmer support than the proposed program of helpful legislation would win, it actually was one step in a shrewd plan to make Muscle Shoals an asset for the republican party instead of for Ford and the Democrats.

The administration's plan will be revealed when congress meets. There is no intention of letting Ford have Muscle Shoals. The plan is now outlined for the republican administration to operate Muscle Shoals as a fertilizer plant and thus perform for the western and southern farmer the service Ford has planned to give if he could get Muscle Shoals.

The success of this project depends on congressional sanction. A large appropriation will be necessary but the administration's influence will be used to the utmost to swing into line all the "regulars" and enough far-ble and liberal members to provide the money to put Muscle Shoals into operation as a government project.

The idea is not by any means unanimously approved within the administration. But it is backed by powerful men, who argue that "the whole people ought to get the benefit of Muscle Shoals," and that if Ford could make money selling power and producing fertilizer the government could do likewise.

honest people of a great industrial region.

Proof of this statement, the government admitted, is to be found in every corner in the Ruhr territory. The administration's liberal hand, which poured money last July into the Ruhr, has turned many of the workers into parasites.

Moral Home Lost.

The Ruhr has lost its sense of morals.

Not only the needy and despoiling received handsome doles from the treasury of the Reich but business men of greater or lesser degree liberal, by have waxed fat off the nation's generosity.

Finance Minister Hinferting said: "Almost the entire population of the occupied territories was supported through national funds. The people now must comprehend what that great expense means."

"And the matter did not end with mere expense of supporting the population. We were forced to provide in ever increasing measure actual capital for the territory."

"There were no markets and no sales. Factories only worked to fill up their supplies and occupy employees in some manner without really creating any wealth."

Parasites Claim Bounty.

"Workers had no income and demanded that wages and other costs be borne by the government. Even lawyers, doctors and artists claimed their share of governmental support."

The Westphalian People's Paper, confirming the minister's statements said:

"The lack of conscience and morality grew so rapidly after the Ruhr invasion that soon everybody knew how to get large sums without effort."

"Anyone who did not understand how to fill his pockets was regarded as an ass."

ST. FARM THINK NO MORE

San Jose in Lower California
Washed Out by Tidal Wave

ST. JOSE, Cal., Sept. 25.—San Jose, the village of Lower California, reported to have been destroyed by a tidal wave, though the village had the destination of being the largest agricultural town of the 1000 square miles of the peninsula, says the National Geographic Society.

Agriculture is a novelty in Lower California, although it shares the name of, and runs along with, one of our richest agricultural states. Lower California is in striking contrast to its sister and one-time Nian-vue twins. It is a sort of American Arab—a sea of sand and rocks under a blazing sun.

Along its 2000 miles of coastline—a length greater than that from Key West to Boston—there is only one stream entering the sea that flows on the surface from source to mouth the year round. The other streams are mere torrents living for brief periods after the infrequent rains or short spring-fed brooks that die quickly in the sands.

Because the desert lowlands of Lower California are isolated and subjected to long continued droughts, sandwiched between brief, heavy rains, there has been developed in them perhaps the richest and most extraordinary variety of plant life in the world. Botanists, whose observations have ranged from the cold-stunted growth of Arctic tundras to the luxuriant foliage of the moist tropics declare that they have found nowhere such a grotesque riot of extraordinary plant forms as in this Mexican peninsula.

San Jose del Cabo's name tells qualitatively its geographical location. It is "St. Joseph of the End" and is at almost the exact southern terminus of the long narrow peninsula. Its virtue of this location it just manages to edge into some of the rains of the mainland's summer rainy season. Immediately about it is a fertile little valley in which the summer rains make possible the raising of sugar cane and other crops.

The town has no harbor. But coasting steamers regularly anchor off shore and take on or put off freight and passengers in tug boats.

PRESSMEN ARRIVE TO BREAK GOTHAM STRIKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—New York increased the size of their combined editions to 16 pages today by mutual agreement.

Union pressmen from out of town were reported arriving in the city on nearly every train, following telegrams sent broadcast by Mayor George Berry, president of the International union.

Efforts to prevent the influx of outside pressmen were attempted by the local "outlaw" union by means of telegrams sent to all the larger cities, according to the publishers.

DIVORCE PLEA DENIED WHEN FIB IS FOUND

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 25.—There are many ups and downs in the life of an elevator girl, but it doesn't pay any of them to tell fibs in court, as gay Kathleen Horne confessed she did before Judge H. C. Spicer.

Gay Kathleen, 27, seeking a divorce, told the judge she had no other man, was keeping company with no other man, and had no idea of being wedded again if divorced.

Her husband, present in court as a spectator, spoke up and told the court his wife was not telling the truth. Finally after severe cross-examination the woman admitted writing a love letter to another man.

The judge fined her $10 for contempt of court and refused to grant the divorce.

ALABAMA SPEEDERS MUST PAY $1 A MILE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 25.—"Sixty miles, 900," said C. F. Walker, acting police judge here, in opening a drive against speeders.

The highest fine assessed thus far is $30, but Birmingham police have been bringing in the speeders at a rate of more than 30 a day.

The speeder going over 40 miles an hour will be forced to change his belongings to the city jail until the expiration of his sentence, in addition to the jailer's daily fee, the judge

Bathing Beauty Show Routs Male Models in Undie Event

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Male models played to capacity crowds exhibiting the latest fashions in men's undergarments and pajamas at the exhibition of men's clothing here today found the competition of a half dozen bathing beauties too keen.

Up to the time of the opening of the one-woman's exhibit, the male models played to capacity crowds. Thousands of visitors jammed the floor as the males, including classic figures, shorts, tanks, and fast pajamas in many varieties of guises, while others lolled on beds in pajamas of latest design.

Then someone whispered that the bathing beauties were on show. A moment later, the male models were playing to an empty house.

The clinging knitted bathing suit, with rolled hose, will be the correct beach ensemble next year, the designers said. Wherever the designers put the diaphanous knee will be in color combinations. Lots of color is the decree.

STIRRING GERMAN NATIONALISM

The dedication of monuments to dead German war heroes, and the observance of patriotic holidays, have been made the occasion for the stirring up of German nationalistic feeling. General von Ludendorff has been the leader on many such occasions. KILLS NINE SO HE CAN STEAL PATENT

VIENNA, Sept. 25.—According to reports from Klausenburg, one of the greatest criminal cases of the century is occupying the Transylvanian authorities.

The main facts are that Railway Superintendent Joseph Mold poisoned first his own brother in order to appropriate and exploit an invention made by the latter, and then killed in the same way five persons whom he feared might make depositions against him, proving various crimes, including thefts and embezzlements of large sums of money.

The most sensational feature of the case is that four more witnesses against him were likewise removed by poison by accomplices while Mold was in prison awaiting trial.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 25.—A $85 a month appropriation towards maintaining the dental clinic at the Millard school here was authorized at a meeting of county commissioners Monday morning. Children from all parts of Jefferson county in rural schools will be urged to use the free clinic two days a week.

Capitalistic System Defended by Head Bankers Association

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 25.—The American Bankers Association today opened its 10th annual convention with a general session on the million dollar pier here today.

A vigorous assault on the various schools of so-called "radicals" of the day was made by J. H. Puchner, president of the association, in his opening address, wherein he justified the capitalistic system as having "brought to all the people more comfort and greater leisure than has any other system thus far tried."

He recognized at the same time, however, a number of evils of the capitalistic system, declaring that there should be no child labor; no seven-day work labor; no unduly long hours of labor, and no "treacherous business cycles."

Bricklayers in Illinois Receive $146 a Week

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 25.—Bricklayers in Waukegan are receiving as high as $146 a week because of a war among building contractors. The contractors are hiring bricklayers away from one another at advanced wages.

Work on the $300,000 addition to the courthouse has been halted because contractors for the Public Service company, a $25,000,000 corporation, have succeeded in getting most of the bricklayers.

Treasure of Old Days to Start Out New Life

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 25.—Faltering before the cruel need of making her destination known, but keeping a stiff upper lip about it, an 88-year-old woman of gentle breeding and independent spirit unbroken by the tragedy of poverty, stricken old age, has appealed to the Evening Herald to find a market for the last of the treasures collected during better, more prosperous days.

"One by one my things have been sold to keep my daughters and myself from starving," she said. "My mother's jewelry, old embroideries, valuable heirlooms—everything."

"But there is still a silk patchwork quilt that was my mother's. And a collection of old theatrical prompt books and playbills of a hundred years ago. Among these is a libretto of 'Clari,' an opera by John Howard Payne, author of 'Home, Sweet Home,' produced in 1823 at the Theater Royal, Covent Garden, London."

"And there is an old album, dated 1848 and which contains the autographs of Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate, Presidents Taylor and Polk, and other prominent figures of the Washington of that day. Any of these relics I would part with, though they are all dear to me. Collectors have made me offers in the past, but I have always refused."

Many of these treasures are mementoes of the stage and of interest to theatrical people, since their owner was connected with the founder of the Brooklyn theater, where Edwin Booth made his first appearance.

YOU AND I

WEEK
Some business men are a trifle worried because production of pig iron in our country during August was about a sixteenth less than in July.

However, August iron output was over three and a half times as big as in August, 1921, during hard times. Also, it was a third larger than production in August, 1913, when times were normal. So we're still in prosperity up to our ears in iron manufacturing, you know, is the key to industry—weather-vane of general business.

WEAK
In August, 1,431 business firms failed in the United States. With the single exception of July, this was the smallest number of any month for over two years.

The job of removing the weak links from the business chain seems about completed. The strong survive. Their strength gives one a comforting feeling of security in event general business has to travel a strip of rough road.

RADIUM
In Fergana, Russian central Asia, mining engineers discover what looks like the largest deposit of radium in the world.

This doesn't attract as much attention as the average discovery of a new gold field. But it's a lot more important, for it may easily make radium available for every hospital in the world. Radium now is so scarce that it is obtainable for use against only a tenth of the cancer cases it could help.

SHOES
The toothpick shoe for men is coming back into fashion, according to Charles D. Coe, representative of the oldest shoe factory in our country. He says that shoe styles travel in cycles and that the pendulum is swinging away from common-sense comfortable shoes.

Don't place any bets. The same was said about belted hats and short skirts. Americans are not as inclined to jump through fashion's hoop as formerly. The "slaves to style" are beginning to insist on a voice in the management.

DEBT
The national debt now is a trifle under 22 billion dollars, after deducting Uncle Sam's surplus funds.

This means that the national debt is $207 for every man, woman and child in the country. While even that is a large sum, it's not enough to drive us to the poorhouse. The income of all the American people for less than half a year would wipe out every penny of the national debt. A great many Americans would be thankful if their personal debts were not any larger than their share of the national debt.

30 CENT COTTON

Thirty cent cotton came in long before the month of September passed out. Thousands of Texas farmers are receiving $150 per bale for the fleecy staple, including the seed and there is more money being turned loose in the cities and villages in the cotton producing sections than at any time in the history of the product.

Pickers in North Texas counties are being paid two dollars per hundred for their work and the demand for pickers is greater than ever before known. After the news of the Japanese disaster had been received in the cotton belt there were many prophets of disaster, but the market never sagged. Indeed, the advance continued until the thirty-cent peak had been touched.

Now it is estimated that the destruction of Japanese spindles was about one million one hundred thousand in number, or about one quarter of the total cotton spindle of the country. The trade editor of the New York Times makes the concession that this can hardly result in a decrease in the consumption of the raw material because other countries, principally the United States and Great Britain, will be called upon to produce the goods which Japanese can not.

In addition to this the earlier reports of the destruction of raw silk in warehouses in Tokio and Yokohama were grossly exaggerated. It was stated that fifty million bales of silk had been consumed by earthquake and flames. Now the silk importers say that the loss is less than eighteen million bales and that early shipments of silk from Japan to America may be expected.

Again, financial experts connected with the Japanese commission to the United States estimate the loss by the earthquake to be $952,500,000, which is about thirteen per cent of productive value of the area affected and less than two per cent of the wealth of Japan proper.

Japan will continue to be the silk producing nation of the Orient and Japan will continue to be a buyer of American cotton. Census figures on August consumption of cotton showed a total of 491,000 bales, compared with 526,000 last year. The stock in American mills on August 31 amounted to 806,000 bales, compared with 1,024,000 a year ago.

At the present rate of consumption of American mills and the foreign demand for the last fiscal year it is certain that the fleecy staple will be a very scarce article before the coming of the cotton crop of 1924.

Texas planted a very large acreage to cotton this year, and the yield in some sections, drought considered, is surprising.

Cotton seed is selling at fifty dollars per ton in some sections and thirty cent cotton is certain to induce thousands of cotton growers to part with their prize possession just as fast as it is picked and ginned.

Speaking of cottonseed, a writer in the New York Times tells of chemistry's use for cottonseed. Huge piles of cottonseed that rotted on the ground or found their way into the rivers and creeks to clog them, he says formed a problem that worried farmers and ginners in the south sixty years ago. Cottonseed was an apparently useless bi-product of the south's greatest industry.

Southern generals and southern historians declare that the south lost the war because there were no fats for the soldiers. No one had discovered that the seed possessed the slightest economic value.

Speaking of the magnitude of the loss suffered by the south in the failure to discover earlier the possibilities of cottonseed, the Times writer says can hardly be computed, but it can be understood in a degree when it is considered that the seed represents two-thirds of the cotton crop and the cotton itself only one-third.

At present the value of products obtained from cottonseed in this country is in excess of one hundred and fifty million dollars annually based on the prices paid for seed in 1922. And thus it is that the one-time nuisance has become a veritable diversity in its uses.

Utilization of cottonseed, continues the Times article, is only one of the hundreds of contributions made by chemicals and chemists to the wealth of the world—contributions that increase continually as the results of laboratory research and experiments.

Manufactured articles that trace their source back to cottonseed, we are told, include many of the necessities and comforts of modern life. Cottonseed oil has driven olive oil from the market; combs are made of the bi-product; garments of artificial silk are made from nitrated cotton linters.

Paints are made, paper is made, roofs are tarred with a residue from cottonseed. Automobiles are cushioned with artificial leather and nitrate glycerine is a bi-product obtained when soap is made from cottonseed oil.

In conclusion the writer says, "Thanks to chemistry, the entire day may be linked with activities in which cottonseed derivatives play a part."

This is what chemistry has done for the cotton grower of the south and the end is not yet in sight.

S PEAKING OF 'FLEUCE

Only three of thirty-one editors in Iowa favor the renomination of Senator William Brookhart. This is a story carried by one of the leading press associations of the county. This will not discourage the famous political economist of the corn belt section of the republic.

Not more than three editors out of thirty gave him support in his first race. The fact is ninety percent of the Iowa editors either gave him cold comfort or editorial brick-bats. They pounded him from start to finish just as the foremost editors of Oklahoma pounded the Hon. Jack Walton, now in the public eye.

When the voting public runs amuck ponderous or penetrating editorials are not productive of results. When the public mind is sane, then the public mind is willing to listen to reason or rather to absorb reason.

S PEAKING OF GAS

According to a federal government bulletin the total registration of motor cars and trucks on July 1st was 13,092,427, or an increase of 761,052 since the first figures of the year. This comment is made: "The remarkable increase in the number of motor vehicles registered in the United States has continued in the first six months of 1923 without any sign of falling off in the rate."

In twenty-seven states gasoline taxes were collected amounting to $8,669,174 of which four-fifths is applicable to road work by or under the supervision of the state departments. Revenue from motor car registrations to July 1st totaled $167,240,937. It must be admitted that the owners of motor vehicles in the United States pay their part of the taxes to keep the home fires burning. Some day if the gasoline supply holds out, all the world will be on wheels. Just now the American people are doing their best to move about on wheels.

QUEST, BY BRENTANOS - GIVE, BY THE REDDING COMPANY
MEANS HERE TODAY
Loring Ranger offers a hundred thousand dollars for the safe return of his missing daughter, Hope. He assisted in his search by his good friends, Justice High, attorney, and Justice Charlie, attorney.

Acting upon directions from Hope's father, Ranger leaves a hundred thousand dollars with a letter at a specified place. Charlie stations himself near the place mentioned in the letter to keep watch of the car that collects the funds.

At Dr. Bristow's private sanitarium a nurse named Copley, regarding an inmate registered as Nurse Copley's sister, George Kelsey, detained at the hospital, is friendly with the so-called sister. He decides that the girl is not insane.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
He knew the girl was not, but the way she held her pose, never relaxing for a moment into the normal, raised him to wonder and admiration for her courage and strength of will; and the pathos of that courage stirred his heart.

Revolving the riddle as he mused on the porch in the sunshine, his glance strayed from under his down-drawn brow to where she sat, the ever-present older sister knitting beside her.

How alike the two were, and yet how different. Anita, beautiful in a way, but to him repellent—a woman pursuing the course of her perverse, unscrupulous will.

Verna breathed a different air. About her was the atmosphere of one reared in ease and freedom and beauty. She had all the simplicity of breeding; Anita's veneer was specious.

While he pursued the puzzle, never getting any nearer to a solution, a big, anxious frown came over him as he gazed and gazed up before the entrance. A ponderous, bent old man emerged, carefully guided by his valet. Some one important it was without a doubt; for Bristow came down the steps to meet him with a jovial camaraderie. There was an amount of luggage which was hastily unloaded and carried upstairs. The new arrival gave some directions to his valet and his chauffeur, and then preceded Bristow into the house, as if perfectly familiar with the place.

He stopped at the head of the steps, though, to speak to Anita, a copyist, who had hurried forward with smiling, almost sympathetic, deference, and Kelsey got a fair view of him.

"So Alderman Higgins has come back," Kelsey heard the comment of some one behind him. "Wonderful how he holds out."

Miss Copley had followed the old man and Bristow into the house; and with her presence removed, he looked about for the girl. She had risen from her chair and was standing at the far end of the porch.

Avoiding an appearance of haste, he moved down the porch and paused near her, leaning on the railing while he lighted a cigar.

"Who is the old man that just came?" she asked. He wondered a little at the note of urgency in her voice over so immaterial a matter.

"Alderman Higgins," he heard some one say, "he told her, 'That is all I know.'"

She drew in her breath quickly as he mentioned the name. It seemed to confirm a conjecture on her part and carry considerable significance.

"Find out all you can about him," she had hurriedly, "and let me know."

"I will," said Kelsey. "But why?" "Don't stop to talk now, we haven't time. She will be right back."

With her usual benign uncertainty, she moved away toward her chair, and Kelsey returned to the other end of the porch, perplexed to understand the meaning of her request, yet rejoicing that she should have called upon him for a service.

CHAPTER XII
The house physician, when Kelsey dropped into his office that evening, happened to be in a valuable mood. A medical journal lay upon his desk in which he had just been reading an article that controverted one of his pet theories; and he seized upon the opportunity to refute the fallacy, citing authorities and giving his reasons at length, while he puffed indignantly at his old, black pipe.

Kelsey was pleased to find that he could command respect in the little man's views, and by his advice and with his assistance a letter was composed to the publication, which they were convinced left the offending author not a leg to stand on.

So delighted was Morton with the vigor of the rejoinder and so grateful that he extended into unmeasured warmth; and Kelsey took quick advantage of the propitious moment to strike.

"By the way," indifferently, "who was the old rooster that arrived this morning in such state?"

Morton looked at him in surprise. "Who, you know, Dr. sure enough; you didn't come here until after he'd left for Bermuda. That, my son, is ex-Alderman William Higgins. Mean to say you never heard of 'Hobbs' Billy' Well," as Kelsey shook his head, "a half dozen years ago he used to be a power in New York about the same time, I guess, as some of your picturesque named politicians in life as a tramp, they say; but somehow he managed to edge into politics and cleaned up big, worth anywhere from seven to ten millions, I guess. He stays here when he's not off on one of his periodical trips. Funny old coozer."

"I should say so," Kelsey agreed. "It's the first time I ever heard of a man voluntarily making an income as a headhunter."

"Oh, he's a bug," Half blind, pretty well broken down physically, but mentally keen enough; shrewd, devilish shrewd, let me tell you. And as to his being here, why, he had some nervous affection, you see, used to go on fierce sures and all that, and Bristow got him into shape. They're like brothers."

"So?" Kelsey was mildly interested. "I saw the two of them out together this afternoon in Bristow's new Rolls-Royce."

Morton filled his pipe and looked over at Kelsey with a humorous, contemplative smile and a wag of his head.

"Yes; some car, I've seen the days when Bristow had to hoof it all the way to the station, if he wanted to get into town."

"Times have changed, say?" Kelsey was stretched out in his chair. "Not always so prosperous?"

"Not always," Morton's reminiscence smile still lingered. "When I first came here, seven years ago, things were so far from prosperous, that we never knew from one week to another whether we could keep going or not. Then, all of a sudden, we were on easy street. Bristow began putting all sorts of improvements on the place, buying more land, throwing out new wings, installing modern appliances, re-furnishing, redecorating, splashing out on cars, turning himself out like the filly of the field, and making the old dump one of the highest-priced residences for fashionable nuts in the whole East."

"Found the buried treasure under slightly."

Morton chuckled. "Where the money came from, I never knew. Bristow's close-mouthed and it would take a boiler man that I am to guess."

"You see," he explained, "all this happened after 'Hobbs' Billy came into our lives, and I've always believed that he gave the tip that was responsible for our rise to greatness."

The bell of the telephone tingled, and Morton interrupted himself to answer the call.

"Yes, doctor," he said; then, reluctantly, as he turned round, eye toward Kelsey: "Yes—Yes, he's here, doctor." After a moment, he hung up the receiver.

"It's Bristow," he said; "he wants to see you in his office right away. Kelsey flung himself out of Morton's room and down the hall to meet his anticipated caller."

Sleek and shining, Bristow lounged on the hearth rug, looking down at the clear flame of a birdcage fire.

The conference upstairs from which he had just come had left him in the best of humor, and he felt in the mood to play a cat and mouse game with Kelsey, whom he regarded as an imminently lacking in finesse.

"Ah, Kelsey?" he said pleasantly, taking a chair himself and waving his hand toward another one. "Sit down and have a cigar." He pushed across the table a humidor containing various brands in the different compartments.

Kelsey stiffly declined both the chair and cigar. This, however, cordially made him wary. But Bristow's smiling geniality was "proof" against the refusal.

"Rather late," he said; "but I was anxious for a little talk with you—about yourself." He was grave now, but kindly. "Although I may have seemed to neglect you, you have really been very much in my mind. To speak frankly, your present manner of life is not good for you; it leaves you too much time to brood."

Bristow lifted the letter containing the magazine offer from the table and getting up handed it to the younger man.

Kelsey rapidly glanced over it, but before he could speak, Bristow took up his third cigar.

"I have rather the time, now," with a mellow laugh, "the inclination to undertake it. Too much to do, too much work altogether. But it struck me that it would be just the thing for you. I would have to sign the article, of course, but that is detail."

Kelsey saw himself pulling this low, old, bearded man of the East. Not for a kingdom.

"Do I understand," he asked with exaggerated humility, his mouth still twitching, "that you wish to entrust, not that hypothetical quantity, your honor, but your name, your scientific reputation to my unworthy hand?"

The shaft glanced off, without doing a scratch.

"Don't believe yourself, my boy," benignly. "You are, I know, an excellent and well-informed writer."

"I'm sorry," Kelsey's tone was elaborately satirical, "but it will be impossible for me to oblige you."

"Think twice before you refuse," Bristow urged persuasively.

He went on, clothing the same arguments in fresh adjectives; but all the time he was covertly scanning Kelsey's face, watching for that quick gleam of the eye which would show that the other had awakened to the latent possibility within his proposal.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT. CARE THE SECRET DRAWER

I wonder, dear Little Marquise, if you were the same in your day that they are now. From all I have read in the histories and biographies of court life and courtiers, it seems to me there were just as many tragedies then as there are today. And almost all those tragedies were the tragedies of love.

I just hate Harry Huntington. He seems to me to be utterly without honor and utterly without morals. I don't believe he carries a solitary thing about him and yet he makes his life miserable by criticism of his looks, his actions and even his thoughts, if they are expressed where he can hear them.

Yesterday Ruth came to me, weeping as though her heart would break. "I don't believe I can go through it," Leslie," she said. "I think I shall have to step out of it all. Harry has not been home for three days, and when I telephoned to his office this morning he had the girl tell me his wife—that he was too busy to talk to me."

"When Harry and I were first married I really worshiped him. He seemed so splendid and so fine, but I learned very soon that his feet were clay. I remember early in my married life I cut a bit of verse from the papers that seemed to tell the whole story."

Ruth looked into her pocketbook and brought out a yellowed and worn piece of newspaper and this is what she read to me:

"She gazed at him with a laurel wreath." And gazed into his eyes beneath the laurel wreath.

"To tell his soul aright." She said, looking long upon his heart. And loved that it might beat the heart.

Or grief in joy's disguise. "She held to him her steadfast hands." And said she always understood. "That was within my lies." Blindly she worshiped and adored. And brought to him her whole great heart.

Of love that never dies. "She never knew his foot were clay." Until one sad, heart-breaking day. She dropped her eyes. And found a laughing little maid. Who all unconscious there had strayed. "Making and piecing."

Chinchilla Nearing Extinction, Is Claim
BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 20.—Ruthless slaughter of chinchilla by trappers seeking to take advantage of high prices for the skins of the little animals has reduced these fur-bearing to the verge of extinction, according to Dr. Carlos Outes, governor of the territory of Los Andes.

Dr. Outes, in a report to the ministry of the interior, says it is virtually impossible to prevent the destruction of chinchilla under existing laws, since the fine for trapping is 50 pesos a skin, while the skin itself is worth 100 pesos.

In view of the fact that the common fox, whose pelt is worth only a few dollars, is the worst enemy of the chinchilla, Dr. Outes would like to see all restrictions on killing of foxes abolished.

He also asks for authority to start a chinchilla farm in the Andes in his province, which, he says, would be profitable, inasmuch as good chinchilla skins cannot be found under an elevation of 2,500 feet above sea level.

BERLIN BARBERS ARE SIMPLY OUT OF LUCK
BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Berlin barbers are out of luck. Since the hard times set in everybody has taken either to self-shaving or to being a barber. The consequence is that many shops are making their men on shifts one half shaving one day, the other half the following day.

One prominent barber allows that business with him is so poor that he not only cannot afford to be barbered, but that he can only shave himself every other day because soap is so expensive.

Your Health

By Dr. C.C. Robinson
HEALTH HOBBIERS

Fads and fancies in foods and fastings, come and go like the seasons. Every once in a while some new idea on how and what to eat to make you strong, wise or beautiful sprouts in the brain of someone with a food hobby. Many of us at times proceed to try to carry it out to the best of our eating ability.

All that is necessary to be well and healthy, and do life's work at its happy medium, is to use a little common sense and let hobbies and fads go their way.

The scientist and physician are pretty good guides to follow in all matters pertaining to normal health, and what to use to the best advantage as real body building and sustaining foods.

For instance, there is the going without breakfast hobby. It may be, as has been stated in this column, that thousands of people eat too much, but a nourishing breakfast is a sure cure for a grouchy and a necessary meal for those who toil and spin.

The hot water fad is another—water internally, externally and eternally. We all admit the value of water, but hot water as a beverage has no real value, and it is best to use it as little as possible.

Sour milk is another hobby. It possesses no nutritive properties that are not contained in sweet milk. Other fadist value may be dismissed as mere fads, without more comment.

Then there is the carrot fad. There is no reason why carrots should make you more beautiful than tomatoes or string beans, but they are a good food. The idea that hard bread crusts will make you have beautiful, curly hair prevails in many parts of our country—but there is nothing to it, though crusts are good except for your teeth. Another fad is that fish are brain food. It takes brains sometimes to catch fish and that is as far as fish and brains count.

An old mode of mine always carried a horse-chestnut in his pocket to ward off rheumatism. He never had it, but the horse-chestnut has nothing to do with rheumatic conditions.

ARMY WORMS APPEAR IN GRAYSON FIELDS
SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 26.—Army worms are reported to have appeared in the cotton fields in many parts of Grayson county and are eating the leaves. No particular damage has resulted, and it is thought this will help to stave the "boll weevil."

But the woman of today changes her bag as she does her shoes—to suit the occasion and the gown she wears.

McClintock gave two beautiful readings. The feature of the program was probably D. Carter's representation of what he called the "Leagues and Leagues" would be like in 1902, forty years hence. Flashily attired, he gave the picture of a prosperous elderly man, who in speaking to his grandchildren, Mrs. L. A. Durke and Evans Briley, told them of the happenings of 1922, comparing them with the progress of 1902.

Mrs. J. E. Grammer rendered two lovely vocal selections, "Madame Butterfly" and "The Swindler," both being heartily applauded. A toast to Rev. T. C. Owens, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, and a toast to Rev. V. A. Godfrey, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, were the closing numbers on the program.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF THE Central Baptist church met in all-day session yesterday at the home of Mrs. S. R. Nicks, 2437 Thomas boulevard.

During the morning hours the missionary program was rendered, with Mrs. R. F. Day presiding. Rev. G. W. Owens of Dallas gave a helpful and instructive talk on the budget system and taking at the conclusion of the program.

At noon a delectable luncheon was served by members of Circle Two. The afternoon devotionals were conducted by Mrs. T. E. Cannady, and during the business session which followed, plans were formulated for entertaining the Federated Missionary Society in October. The members also voted to buy dishes for the church.

At the close of the business session Mrs. J. A. Ligon and Mrs. R. F. Day gave interesting reports on the Southeast Texas Baptist association, which was held in Orange recently. The offering taken up during the afternoon for the 75 Million Campaign amounted to fifteen dollars.

SHOOTING LIONS "CHILDSPLAY"

MRS. E. JOHN BRANDEIS

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 26.—Shooting lions in Africa might seem difficult for some, but Mrs. E. John Brandeis is not included among them.

Back from the jungle with her husband, she has three kings of beasts to her credit, not to mention a zebra, and other species of a wild nature.

Her husband fell short of her record by one lion, but made up in one rhinoceros, three jackals, and many other strange and wild animals.

Now the Brandeis are planning a trip to India, to shoot Bengal tigers. "And I'll get at least one," promises Mrs. Brandeis.

The Brandeis brought back with them an 18-year-old professional lion hunter, with 40 lions to his credit.

They speak of beasts of the jungle as being anything but tame, but agree that the most dangerous "beast" of all is the malaria mosquito.

"It is a coward," she says. "It creeps up in the dark when one is asleep."

WORLD'S BIGGEST SIGN FLASHES ON BROADWAY NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The highest electric sign on any building in the world was flashed on last night on Broadway. This sign advertises the Gotham National bank and appears above its 23-story building on Columbus Circle. The sign stands 347 feet from the curb.

In fact, there are two signs: one faces south and is visible across Manhattan and out on Long Island, the other faces north and is visible in the Bronx and up the river.

These signs are 80 feet wide. They weigh 80 tons and are riveted together with 15,000 4-ounce bolts. They are built directly on the steel columns of the building, which were erected to support such signs and are built to withstand 37 pounds wind pressure to the square foot.

Found Lost Specs But Is Charged With Theft ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 26.—When Mrs. G. W. Ward lost her spectacles and posted a sign offering $1 reward for their return there were many volunteers among the boys and girls of the neighborhood.

Willie, son of Mrs. Benie Foster, found them and conjured up vision of an orgy of ice cream returned them.

Mrs. Ward however, changed front. "You stole those glasses," she charged.

Willie's mother heard of the incident and there straightway ensued much pulling of hair and slapping of faces.

Mrs. Ward had Mrs. Foster arrested for assault.

Willie is still waiting for his dollar.

GERMANS PROTESTING HIGH LIQUOR TAX AMELIN, Sept. 26.—Berlin wine and beer hall owners have protested against the new liquor taxes which must be immediately added to the price of drinks. They claim the tax burden is driving drinkers away and that the cost of collecting the taxes by government machinery surpasses the income therefrom—through devaluation of the mark in the meantime.

They point out that government taxation of mineral water was given up when it was determined beyond doubt that it cost more to collect the money than it was worth. They even threaten closing their shops, following the example of their colleagues in Kiel and Mannheim.

BELIEVED DEAD
DR. KISHI SAFE

Orange Oil Operator Sends Family Telegram

Special to The News.
 ORANGE, Texas, Sept. 23.—Dr. H. Kishi, president of the Kishi Development company, and one of the largest oil operators in the area, today received word from his family that he was safe in Japan, according to a telegram from his brother, K. Kishi, here late Tuesday night.

Dr. Kishi was at first believed to have perished in the recent Japanese earthquake, as it was known here that he was in Tokyo at that time.

According to his telegram, which was sent from Tokyo on the afternoon of Sept. 16, Dr. Kishi was in the Japanese imperial city at the time of the shock and was in one of the buildings destroyed by the quake, although escaping injury.

His family resides here. S. Nakamura, a associate with the Kishi interests in the oil business here, has just reached Japan, where his family is believed to have perished in the disaster. No word has been received from them, and he had not reached Tokyo, his former home, when the cable was received.

Farrell In Surtance.
 The Transmarine corporation steamship Surtance, due to arrive in Port Arthur Monday, is commanded by Captain Fred Farrell, of Port Arthur. Due to removal of a number of the Transmarine ships in the Port Arthur Port Newark run, Captain Farrell was transferred from the Surtance out of the Port Arthur run.

Four Ships to Atlantic.
 Four ships are scheduled to arrive at the Atlantic Refining company's Port Arthur terminals within the next few days to load oil cargoes for ports on the Atlantic seaboard. An Atlantic Refining ship, the Herbert L. Pratt, arrived in Port Arthur today to load at the Texas Company's terminals, but the other vessels, the W. M. Burton, Dunganon, under charter to the Atlantic Refining, the Samuel L. Fuller and the Bohemian Club, will load cargo at the Atlantic Refining terminals, finishing at the Texas Company.

Jan Ship Sails.
 Finishing a cargo of sulphur at the Union Sulphur company's Sabine terminals, the Japanese steamship Raifu Maru departed Tuesday for Hamburg, Sydney C. Collin, agent for the ship, said today. This was the second Japanese steamship to load in the Sabine district during the month of September, the other being the Ryufu Maru, which loaded grain in Port Arthur.

Suduro Sails Saturday.
 With the departure Saturday of the steamship Suduro, the new Saturday sailing date schedule will be inaugurated by the Transmarine corporation at its Port Arthur terminals. Sailing the ships out of Port Arthur four days earlier than heretofore will necessitate night loading and discharging at the Coastwise docks, powerful electric lights having been installed on the docks and aboard the ships to make this night work possible. Increased business, demand for quick movement of cargo and the general good of the Transmarine service require a shift of four days to be made in the time the vessels spend in port here, James L. Boyd, manager of the Port Arthur Transmarine terminals, said.

ACH, YES! This Refrain From Old Song
Made France Laugh, Defeated The 'Tiger'

By MILTON BRONNER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent
 PARIS, Sept. 23.—"Ach, yes!" These words—refrain to a savage bit of French doggerel verse—made all France laugh, decided an important election in the Var district, won the undying enmity of Clemenceau, and finally brought Ernest Judet to the bar of justice, charged with being a traitor to France in time of war.

Back in the early nineties Ernest Judet was one of the most famous editors in France. He presided over the fortunes of Petit Journal and drew a huge salary.

Clemenceau in those days was earning his terrible name of "Tiger." Ministry after ministry fell before the onslaughts of the grim old statesman. Then he himself ran for reelection to the French parliament in the district of the Var.

His enemies got back something of their own. Petit Journal under Judet led the pack. By editorials, by cartoons, by scathing articles, by ribald songs it pursued Clemenceau.

The climax came when Judet printed in his paper—"The Litanies of M. Clemenceau." Its general tone can be guessed from the opening lines:

"I am poor, Clemenceau uselessly repeats.
 "Ach, yes!
 "I have never speculated in Panama."
 "Ach, yes!"

All kinds of insinuations against the grand old man were thus gathered up and denied only to be negated by this—"Ach, yes!"

When Clemenceau went to the Var to make speeches, French voters shouted—"Ach, yes!" at him.

It beat him. It stopped his career at a time when he could hope for everything. He never forgave Judet.

Many years passed. Judet had fallen upon harder days. He was editor of a paper which was not prosperous. Clemenceau was France's war-time minister. Judet went to serve France. His enemies said he went to betray France.

Then Clemenceau pointed. Accusations were brought against Judet.

It was charged he entered into negotiations with the Germans, whereby he was to foster the pacifist movement in France.

Judet did not return to France at the original date fixed for his trial. The case went on just the same and last February he was sentenced by default to perpetual detention in a fortified place for having intelligence with the enemy during war time.

Then one fine day Judet returned to France, gave himself up and demanded a trial where he could face his accusers. The trial lasted 11 days. Ten minutes after the jurors got the case they acquitted Judet.

Thirty years after his original feud with Clemenceau, he is once more free to pursue hostilities if he wishes. But Clemenceau is 82 and out of office.

And Judet is 72 and out of a job. Little rumors travel fast. So do little rumors.

SAN SABA IRRIGATION
DATA COST IS SMALL
 SAN SABA, Texas, Sept. 23.—The estimated cost of the San Saba irrigation district project is placed at $2,000,000, but according to W. H. Brown, secretary, only $10,000 is immediately to be spent in case the plan is adopted to create the district.

This small cost is due to the fact that there is already at hand a vast amount of information, surveys, and other engineering data available in the district, he created.

SAN SABA IRRIGATION
DATA COST IS SMALL
 SAN SABA, Texas, Sept. 23.—The estimated cost of the San Saba irrigation district project is placed at $2,000,000, but according to W. H. Brown, secretary, only $10,000 is immediately to be spent in case the plan is adopted to create the district.

This small cost is due to the fact that there is already at hand a vast amount of information, surveys, and other engineering data available in the district, he created.

MY THEORY FOR TEACHING GOLF

START ON THE GREEN

By BOBBY CRICKSMARK

This is the first of a series of twenty-four articles by Bobby Cricksmark, who became the leading golf professional in the United States in 1922 by winning the national title at Inwood.

My theory for teaching golf might be called "different."

After a few years' experience as an instructor, during the course of which I followed the generally accepted method of starting with a full swing, ending with the putter, I grew dissatisfied with the results. I obtained through this method.

After closely observing the reactions of learners to the first days of instruction, I found that something might be added to create more zest for them in the early stages of their golf education.

After careful deliberation I decided that the most progressive and interesting way for a golf to learn to putt from the putting green and work back to the tee.

Then, to start with putting, next take a short chip shot, then the longer iron strokes, until eventually the golfer is ready for work on the tee.

As I go along I will get down to the technical points of the game. Right now, however, I wish to impress on the reader what I think is a very excellent reason for starting from the green instead of from the tee.

Explains the Theory
I have become trusting that the beginner will see the merit in the system of instruction I adopted and find more beneficial to pupils than the generally accepted way of teaching.

When the beginner is started out on the green, his or her fancy is caught right off by creating an atmosphere of competition.

There is a sense of achievement in hitting the ball into the cup. A first hole makes the pupil concentrate all the more for right there in front of him is the object to strive for.

But let me insert right here that at the start-off few persons have a sense of direction. They have to be taught. Then, this being the case, it is not seem reasonable that a golfer should be asked to make a long putt with a great degree of accuracy.

It is a lucky swing from the tee, the beginner oftentimes experiences the disheartening sight of the ball going off the line.

Get First Movement at Start
The first movement that can be acquired at the start is beginning the putting green will increase as the player advances to the lighter strokes. Moreover, it is my belief, which I have become the reader's, that the person undergoing his or her baptism in golf instruction gains a more natural idea of the swing from starting by putting.

Whether the pupils be north, thin, tall or small persons, I think this is true.

You know yourself that there is a fascination in attempting to achieve something. It is the competitive spirit in our make-up.

I will give you an illustration. Born and reared in Scotland, where golf is the national game, I began to manipulate a putter before I was any higher than the beginner. All the boys who played with me did the same thing.

We used to make greens and cups of our own. Many a heated battle we had for putting supremacy, just as youngsters in this country wage spirited marble contests.

I could name several of my best head chums who have gained prominence as players. As they started in the game on the putting green, I think perhaps that my instruction for a method of instruction came from my own childhood experiences.

Later I will take up the stance and grip, but I wish to make clear in this introductory article the reason and the benefit to be derived by the beginner starting to learn the game on the putting green.

In my next article I will explain some of my new theories, which I think will meet with the approval of advanced players.

HORSESHOE CHAMPION RETAINS HER TITLE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Showing a reversal of form over that displayed yesterday, Mrs. J. F. Landrum of Bloomington, Ill., in one of the closest games of the National Horseshoe Pitchers' association tournament here. Although defeated, Mrs. Landrum hung up a record by throwing a percentage of 70 ringers in her game.

RAIN SLOWS RIFLE MEET AT CAMP PERRY

M'KINNEY GOLFERS PLAN TOURNAMENT

M'KINNEY, Texas, Sept. 25.—A tournament is being planned by golfers of the Hill Crest Country club for the Howell cup.

The play will be from Sept. 26 to the 29. H. D. Bass is the present holder of the cup, which is played for annually. J. L. Rhea and E. R. Kirkpatrick are the former holders of the cup. There are four members of the local golf club who are holders of this "hole in one" distinction.

A LITTLE STORY ABOUT BEER, BUT NOT IN U. S.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 25.—The internal consumption of beer in the Argentine, which represents an annual loss to the tax authorities of 70,213,242 pesos, as has been consumed in breweries is not taxed.

The beer industry is one of the best organized in the Argentine, and is virtually a monopoly as it is controlled by one financial group.

This industry, with its big profits, increasing annually, has always been greatly favored by the federal and provincial tax authorities, who do all within their means to reduce taxation on it. Recently a law was passed, which means a 75 per cent. increase in annual profit for the brewer, but not for the consumer, of 3,450,000 pesos, as prices have not been reduced.

TO PICK HORSE TO RUN AGAINST PAPYRUS

By HENRY L. PARRELL, United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—America's spring star, that will carry the colors against the English derby winner Papyrus, in the international championship race at Belmont on October 20, probably will not be named until October 6. The arrangements entered into between the American racing officials and Ben Irish, owner of the British horse, provide that the American entry does not have to be named until two weeks before the race.

The committee of the jockey club, picked to name the American entry bearer is facing several difficulties and probably will wait just as long as possible to choose between Zev, the Rancocas star, and Admiral Grayson's My Own.

On a public vote Zev probably would be the overwhelming choice to run against the British horse as expert opinion regards the Rancocas three year old as the class of the year.

Since Zev was injured in the Lawrence Realization stakes, the officials have doubts, however, that he will be sound enough to run according to his form.

Papyrus, the English horse, is now in mid-ocean on the Aquatama. Wireless messages received from the liner indicate that some very rough weather has been encountered, but the derby winner has been standing the trip well.

No Date Has Been Set Yet for Bout Between Firpo-Jack

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Though a return battle between Jack Dempsey and his Argentine rival, Luis Angel Firpo, is regarded by ring followers as inevitable, details of their second clash for the heavyweight title may not be arranged for some time, probably not until next year, when the battle is most likely to take place.

Tex Rickard, promoter of the hostile battle at the Polo Grounds a week ago, has made little headway in negotiations this week with Firpo and Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, despite the willingness of both fighters to enter the ring again.

Firpo is averse to being involved in another long term contract such as he had with Rickard this year. He is willing to fight Harry Williams, negro contender, in addition to Dempsey, but not until next year. He prefers to wait until before coming to a definite agreement.

PELICANS DROP OPENING GAME

Fort Worth Takes Lead in Dixie Series—Wins 3-1

Special to The News
FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 25.—Fort Worth will oppose the Pelicans tomorrow in the opening game of the "Dixie Championship" series.

Fort Worth jumped into the lead yesterday by taking a 3 to 1 decision over the Pelicans, assisted by Kraft's homer in the fourth which netted two runs and his single in the eighth scored Calvo with the final tally of the day.

Not to be outdone by Kraft's superb hitting, Stoner on the hill for the Pelicans, allowed the Crescent City champions but four runs, resulting in their lone run in the third frame.

Marring on the hill for the Pelicans, Stoner and pitched masterfully and Fort Worth was able to touch him for five blows only. At the last minute Manager Gilbert of the Pelicans shifted his alignment and jerked Clinton Knapp out of the lineup, sending Bogart to second, Schick to left field and Tucker to right.

Interest in the outcome of the series is at fever heat here today. Should the Pelicans again win, in the neighborhood of 500 fans will make the trip to New Orleans for that part of the series.

Uncle Sam's Tax Retards Interest In Golfing Match

Special to The News

TERRELL, Texas, Sept. 25.—Local golfers were greeted with a severe shock when they opened their mail this morning to find official notices from the office of the collector of internal revenue in Dallas requesting remittance within the next 10 days of 10 per cent of their annual membership dues in the Terrell Country club.

Most of them have spent many a weary hour in chasing the elusive putt over the long green fairways, rough hazards, and finally into a small round hole, quite unmindful of the fact that our Uncle Sam would ask of them a penalty in addition to the arduous labor that they have undergone.

GLEASON GROOMS KID CATCHER FOR CHI. SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—What will happen to the White Sox when Ray Schalk is done? That question has been asked by dozens of Chicago fans and no answer was apparent for a great many years. The problem appears now to be solved in the presence of Clyde Cruise, lately of Muskegon, Michigan.

A few weeks ago Cruise attracted the attention of the White Sox scout and he was brought to Chicago. He throws well, knows how to receive and can hit. He is by far the best second string catcher the Sox have had since Strick became a one-man outfield staff 11 years ago.

TEMPLE, Texas, Sept. 25.—Temple has been increasing its scope as a sporting town steadily for two years and has successfully added football to dog racing, horse racing, building of automobile racers, swimming, diving and checkers.

Trouble has started, however, in the old town and the sporting element is being assailed.

The Y. M. C. A. revived the time-honored sport of horse-shoe pitching and a bowl went up that such conduct and encouragement on the part of the Christian association was unbefitting. The games are being continued under protest.

FIRPO TO FIGHT DURING WINTER

Figures He Has Chance to Beat Dempsey in Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Luis Angel Firpo is going to spend the winter picking dough and will not bother with any preparations for his next fight with Jack Dempsey.

Plans being made now by the big Argentine have no room for the higher education in the use of his fists which the critics insist he must acquire if he wants to win the heavyweight championship.

Firpo is going to use his hands only to haul in cash for six months and then he may get himself some instruction and go through the process of learning how to win in the ring.

He is going to make an exhibition tour in Canada and then grab a boat for South America where he wants to show the natives the man who gave the great Dempsey his hardest fight.

After Firpo's fight with Dempsey, Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, said that he had been

They were realistic artists, these cave dwellers, and the carvings they have just been brought to light show that they were believers in the power of magic to overcome their enemies and capture their prey in the forest.

Important Discovery
Robert Castet, an enthusiastic archaeologist, is responsible for the discovery, which is regarded as the most important of its kind in France. He had noticed in trips in the Pyrenean country the evident signs of a subterranean stream and decided to explore it. Being an athlete and a powerful swimmer, he was able to carry out his design in spite of immense difficulties. One of these was a series of great rocks covering the bed of the river and forming a kind of natural siphon at the entrance. However, owing to the prolonged heat this summer, the water in this siphon was found very low and M. Castet was able to plunge into the river, holding aloft a lantern to guide his way, swimming with one arm when the water was too deep to wade.

After having progressed about half a mile he came upon a vast rock gallery, hundreds of yards in extent, entirely covered with cryptic designs cut into the slater sides. He first noted numbers of carvings representing bears and lions. Then he was struck by three immense horses and other animals of which nothing was known except that they were probably of a species now extinct. All these carvings represented the animals depicted as if they had been desperately wounded in the course of the hunt.

Killing by Substitute
Specialists in the history of primitive peoples had no difficulty in deciphering the meaning of the sculptures. The ancient Franks or Gauls, or whatever they called themselves in those remote days, were fervent believers in the efficacy of what might be termed killing by means of a substitute.

One of them had an enemy whom he wanted to get rid of. Perhaps he didn't want to risk his own skin, or perhaps the enemy was hard to find. The sculptor of the tribe was called in and, wrapping his hands round the other's arm, he said, "I am going to kill this man for you, and I am going to kill him in your name." Then he carved a figure representing the enemy. Whereupon the tribesman who sought vengeance grasped his knotty bludgeon or flint and went for the substitute enemy. When he had battered the image out of all recognition he felt quite sure that the real enemy whom he had in mind all the time was lying on his back, groaning under the rain of blows.

Bringing Home the Bacon
It was the same in regard to hunting. The figures of lions and bears and other animals whose capture was difficult for the primitive tribesmen were treated in the same manner. Slashed by the ax and hammered by the bludgeons of the tribesmen, the animals were believed to be weakened to such an extent that all the hunters had to do was to go after them and "bring home the bacon."

Count Henri Begouen of the faculty of literature at the University of Toulouse said these sculptures confirm entirely the theories regarding this "substitute killing" advanced by Cartailhac, de Bruihl and Salomon Reinach, who have written largely of this period of the history, or prehistory, of France.

WOMEN'S BIG PLAY
FEATURES DEAUVILLE
DEAUVILLE, France, Sept. 25.—The high play of women, some of them little more than girls, is a feature of this year's season at Deauville, the most fashionable of the French seaside resorts.
A crowd throngs the casino from early in the evening until early next morning, but the habitual women players do not, as a rule, arrive till after supper.
Once settled down to play, they remain as long as their temperaments and their purses can stand the strain. The modern woman gambler is of a different type entirely from the wisened, elderly habitués that once were the only representatives of their sex at the tables. She is often beautiful, generally young, and always faultlessly dressed. Her fingers and arms are loaded with jewels. Her bearing is self-assured, and, as a rule, she is astonishingly cool.
TANKER EXPLOSION
INJURES FOUR MEN
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Four men were seriously injured when the boiler of the tanker William F. Herrin exploded at Avon, near here.
The tanker, belonging to the Associated Oil company, was towed out into Suisun bay when fire which followed the explosion, threatened to touch off 45,000 barrels of distillate which was on board. Fire tugs from San Francisco were sent to help fight the fire.

Not Even Dead Can Escape Income Tax
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Not even a dead man can escape his income tax.
A notice sent to all federal tax collectors by the bureau of internal revenue requires the filing of a return of a dead man's income for the portion of the calendar year in which he was alive.
The government collects the normal income tax before it imposes the estate tax. Thus, no deduction of the estate tax is permitted from the dead man's return, the government by this move increasing the normal tax collected from the dead man's last income increasing his estate by the amount of the estate tax, and by the same maneuver, the estate tax itself.
As the bureau's notice figures it out, "the occasion of an estate tax being death and it being imposed only after death, such tax would not be available to the taxpayer as a deduction during his life and is accordingly not available to his personal representative when making a return of the income received by the decedent prior to date of death."

GREAT GRANDFATHER
DIVORCES FIFTH WIFE
AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Father of 18 children, grandfather of 60 and great-grandfather of 2, at 72 years of age, Charles Blund was granted a divorce from his wife in domestic relations court here. Blund told the judge that his last spouse, the fifth, deserted him a week after their marriage in 1920, when he refused to give her a deed to all his property.

McKinney Man Gains 30 Pounds on Tanlac
"Before taking Tanlac I couldn't eat anything but raw eggs and grape juice; even a drink of water would give me trouble in my stomach," is what the striking statement made recently by R. H. McKinney, a well known farmer, living at 900 South Tennessee St., McKinney, Texas.
"This indigestion had weakened me down to where I could do nothing but lay around the house. I was just about as poor as a snake and seemed to be flirting with the undertaker. I actually felt like I would rather not live than suffer such agony."
Finally I made up my mind to give Tanlac a thorough trial and purchased five bottles, and when I finished them my whole outlook on life was changed. I had gained thirty pounds and felt like a brand new man with a brand new stomach. I love my life as well as my good health to Tanlac.
Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.
Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—adv.

FOR WORKING PEOPLE
The best of workers get out of sorts when the liver fails to act. They feel languid, half-sick, "blue" and discouraged and think they are getting lazy. Neglect of these symptoms might result in a sick spell, therefore the sensible course is to take a dose or two of Herbine. It is just the medicine needed to purify the system and restore the vim and ambition of health. Price 60c. Sold by the Corner Drug Co.—adv.

FILE SIX PLEAS FOR SEPARATION

Expect Divorce Mill to Outdo Dan Cupid in County

Special to The News. BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 26.—Six divorces were filed Wednesday in district court before 10 o'clock. These were Andrew Burford from Trenek Burford, Iva Robinson from H. F. Robinson, Sidney Cartwright from Leslie Cartwright, Essie Root from Leslie Root, William Page from Pauline Page and H. F. Robinson from Iva Robinson.

Nothing unprecedented in the annals of the district clerk's office occurred Wednesday morning when a man sued his wife for divorce and she, unknowingly, filed suit for divorce from him at the same time. Within an hour of each other lawyers filed suit for divorce for Iva Robinson against H. F. Robinson and H. F. Robinson filed suit against Iva Robinson. Both are from Port Arthur.

It has been predicted that the number of divorces will run well over a thousand this year, judging from the number already filed. There were 285 divorces last year in Jefferson county and 1,655 marriages and Dan Cupid will have even a greater rate in 1923 with the divorce mill.

MORE TO COME, M'BEE CLAIMS

Ellis Isle Holds Fate of Engaged Girl

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—The Oklahoma legislature has not given up its fight to convene for the impeachment of Governor Walton, according to a "war bulletin" issued this afternoon by Representative W. D. Mabee. Mabee's statement made immediately after the legislators had obeyed the military order to disperse, follows:

"About 70 members of the house of representatives, feeling it their duty to convene to restore constitutional government in Oklahoma, have just elected speaker pro tem, and temporarily are here."

"We realize our constitutional rights are in the balance just as did our forefathers in 1776. We feel that our cause is just and we will carry on. Never in the history of the American republic has such a complete dictatorship been established and carried on to such extent as now prevails in the once fair state of Oklahoma."

MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Stocks on the New York Exchange continued the search today for straws indicating a reversal of the trade winds. They found encouragement in official figures given out by the United States Steel Corporation which set forth striking improvement in its income orders this month as compared with August. This statement furnished positive proof of how far bearishness regarding autumn buying prospects was being overcome and the main body of industrialists showed a better tone.

Noted by the technical considerations, the rally in the trading developed greater confidence in the seasonal progress during the recent drive in the general list four stocks. Baldwin, American Can, Steel and Studelaker. Each of the four of the volume although they represented scarcely more than one piece of the issue dealt in.

This caused seasoned observers to feel that the short side was becoming too overcrowded for comfort and it was believed that inside conditions pointed to at least temporary suspension of the selling pressure.

The market closed higher.
